Zero Wave Predicted as Snow Blankets State

CITY IN PATH OF ICY BLASTS FROM MIDWEST

Road Crews Work Throughout Night to Clear Highways and City Streets.

17 ABOVE ZERO IN FLORIDA

All Sections of Nation East of Rockies Suffers From Unseasonable Cold.

Mansfield and Richland county area suffered today with most of the eastern half of the nation in one of the worst early December cold waves in years, while the state weather bureau predicted zero temperatures by tomorrow as a new cold onslaught sweeps in from the west.

State and county road crews and city street department employes labored throughout the night and were still busy at noon today clearing two inches of snow from thoroughfares already coated with ice and snow.

No Serious Accidents.

Despite the slippery roads and streets, no serious traffic accidents were reported to authorities in the city or county. There were numerous minor collisions, however, as cars got out of control on the ice. The snow, which fell in a blizzard last night and this morning, brought the total fall since Sunday to approximately four and a quarter inches.

Temperatures tabulated dropped to 16 degrees above zero early today from a high of 20 yesterday. The average for the past 24 hours was 18, or 14 degrees below normal for the date. Although the sun broke through at intervals about noon today, the mercury climbed only to 20.

Southern Crops Damaged.

From all sections of the nation east of the Rockies came reports of unseasonable cold, and in central Florida the vegetable and citrus fruit crops suffered heavy damage when the temperature fell to 15 degrees below freezing, 17 above zero, United Press dispatches said. At least 15 persons died in the south in traffic acci-

HITS 2 HOMES

Falling Plane Strikes Houses Killing Boy, 2, and Pilot.

AUSTIN, Tex. — (AP) — An airplane which plunged "like a streak of lightning" into two houses killed a sleeping 2-year-old boy and a Mexican army air corps pilot in northwest Austin's residential section last night.

Leonard Albright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer D. Albright, and Capt. F. A. Avelino, 29, were killed when the plane ploughed into the Albright home. Three-year-old Spencer Albright III was bruised and Mrs. Albright, who had just put the children to bed, was stunned.

DELAYS ACTION

House Committee Postpones Road Diversion Discussion.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—On a motion by the author, Rep. Carl F. Wintzer (D), Auglaize county, the house taxation committee today voted to postpone action on a bill to divert approximately $8,500,000 from county road funds to relief in 1938.

Rep. Wintzer told the committee that it appeared his bill had no support.

Too bad we all aren't second cousins of James Costello, 84, wealthiest citizen of Lisbon, O. For Costello, who was left $500,000 by his brother, has passed out $5,000 apiece to 21 second cousins—a total of $105,000—as Christmas presents. The cousins are scattered throughout Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Connecticut. It is believed Costello is carrying out a family tradition of passing on wealth to remaining members.

ACT TO PUT CITY PURSE IN ORDER

Councilmen Provide Cash For Firemen's Pension, Court Stamps, Avert Dilemmas.

Moving to keep the municipal purse in order as the end of the year approaches, city council went in for wholesale transfers and appropriations last night, thereby averting several dilemmas

Municipal court got the cash it needed for a month to buy stamps—doing away with the necessity for the little jug on the court office counter in which voluntary contributions were dropped.

The firemen's pension fund was replenished, and those on pension will get their December checks, in the full amount.

Workers in the street department were assured of salaries—the department has been running a bit low on cash, and has had to lay off a number of workers.

From the unappropriated general fund, municipal court got $110 to solve the stamp problem; the firemen's pension fund got $1,100 and the traffic light fund was given an additional $700. A sum of $2,000 was turned into the street department for salary payments.

Three fund transfers were also approved. One, for $1,550 was within the waterworks funds, and the other two, for $105 and $350 were within the general fund.

RECORD SALES

195,136 Units Sold By General Motors In November.

NEW YORK—(AP)—World sales of General Motors cars to dealers in November were the best for the month on record at 195,136 units, the corporation reported today.

This compared with 166,939 units in October and 191,720 in November last year.

SEWAGE PLANT 'IN RED' FOR INITIAL YEAR

Need of Change In Equipment Revealed as Council's Asked For Money.

SOLONS, OFFICIALS CLASH

City Dads Grant Funds After Sharp Exchange Over Operation Cost.

Mansfield's going to finish "in the red" in the operation of its sewage plant this year.

That was disclosed at last night's council meeting as council engaged in a discussion when it was asked to appropriate an additional $1,500 for sewage plant operations

The city will be in the red about $2,000 or $2,500 Mayor Earl A. McFarland and City Auditor Paul Kelley said today, as the mayor revealed that changes in the plant during the year had been necessary.

Explains Changes.

He revealed what the changes were today, declining to talk about them at last night's council meeting.

Paddles in the aerators at the plant, he said, were equipped with five-inch blades. After they had been in operation for a while, it was found that the power bills for the plant were running higher than had been estimated.

City officials conferred with officials of the Doerr company, which installed the aerator paddles, the mayor said, and the company agreed to install smaller paddles, at no expense to the city.

Since that step was taken, the mayor said, the power bills have been sharply reduced.

Extra Cash Asked.

However, the plant this year—its first in operation—will cost between $7,000 and $7,500 in excess of sewer rental revenue. Council at the first of the year appropriated $5,000 for the plant's operation.

Revelation of the faulty installation at the plant followed introduction of a supplemental appropriation measure for the sewage plant, asking $1,500. The

SAVE PAYROLL

Pastor, Bank Manager Slam Door on Two Gunmen.

CONISTON, Ont. — (Canadian Press)—A visiting parson and a bank manager saved a $30,000 payroll early today by slamming the door on two slow-moving gunmen.

The gunmen slipped into the apartment of Manager John Graham, above the Canadian Bank of Commerce here.

They demanded that Graham open the vault below. In it were the bank's regular funds and a $30,000 International Nickel company payroll.

Mrs. Graham and Mrs. A. P. Addison, the pastor's wife, were tied in the apartment. Graham and the minister were herded down the stairway.

They reached the street door, Graham suddenly swung it open, and he and Rev. Addison darted through, the slamming door locking the bandits in. The gunmen escaped by a rear stairway.

Council Debates Taxi Speed, Sets 45 Mile-an-Hour Limit

After a brief but heated discussion, city council last night approved an ordinance that makes it compulsory that all taxicabs operating in Mansfield be equipped with governors which will permit a top speed of 45 miles per hour.

George Reichert, manager of the Service Taxi company, appearing before council, protested at the maximum speed of 35 miles an hour, as was originally proposed in the measure.

He pointed out that the governor set at a maximum speed of 35 miles an hour would create a traffic hazard because the cab could not pick up enough speed in low gear to keep moving at a moderate speed. He asked that the change be made in the ordinance calling for a maximum speed of 45 miles an hour.

Reichert added that his fleet was equipped with governors set at 45 miles an hour, which still gave a car enough speed to get over a hill in high gear.

"You fellows have been abusing the rights to use the streets," Third Ward Councilman George Kyle told Reichert, "and I think the cabs should be slowed up. I'm in favor of the 35 mile maximum speed, and if we find that it doesn't prove satisfactory, the ordinance can be amended."

Reichert suggested the licensing of cab drivers and bringing them into court and revoking their licenses for violation of any traffic regulation.

"Our police chief will tell you we don't have enough police now to patrol the town—so why go to the bother of licensing the drivers anyway," First Ward Councilman Russell Porch said.

A representative of the Arrow Cab company said he was not opposed to governors but urged council to set the speed at 45 miles an hour for a temporary period, and then if violation continued, the ordinance could be amended to reduce the speed.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said he had asked for the law after he was notified by insurance companies that they would cancel

Westinghouse Band To 'Swing' In Yule Show

The Westinghouse Revue orchestra is all set to give the cash customers their money's worth at the Christmas charity show Dec. 18 at the Ohio theater, for the orchestra will be an important feature of the "Passing Parade of 1937." The orchestra is under the direction of R. O. Richards (at the extreme right with baton). In the foreground is the Three Grace notes trio, Jane Weuthrich, Dorothy Clingan and Ruth Cox. The orchestra is made up of Dick Garber, at the piano; Edward Beilstein, bass viol, and (front row, left to right) Dale Balph, Anthony Gregory, Myron Hilligoss, Albert Kraus, Roger Stevens; second row (left to right) Bob Pfeifer, E. K. Brauge, Henry Long and Bob Selby. The man at the top is Walter Fensch.

Christmas Show Proceeds To Fill 600 Yule Baskets

500 Already Registered With Many Others Who Must Raise $1,100 at Midnight Entertainment.

As old Kris Kringle draws nearer to Mansfield with the passing of each day, the spirit of the jolly old saint reaches out over the city to remind folks that Christmas is coming—and that there are hundreds of unfortunates for whom the holiday is just another mark on the calendar.

While thousands of merry children know that old Kris will be generous to them and that their homes will be bedecked with colored lights and green wreaths and gay toys, there are hundreds in the city who will have nothing. Many of them are without shoes and warm clothing.

500 Families Already Registered.

At the Community Christmas office there are already more than 500 Mansfield families registered who will receive a basket of food the day before Christmas, and many more are expected when industrial plants turn in their lists. On the list are 200 families of unemployables.

FIGHTS PAROLE OF OHIO KILLER

Wilmington Prosecutor Says Residents Oppose Slayer's Release.

WILMINGTON, O. — (AP) — Prosecutor George Schilling said today he would ask the state parole board to revoke or defer a parole granted to Louis Vandervort, serving a term for second degree murder from Clinton county.

Schilling asserted residents of this county were adamantly opposed to Vandervort's being freed on Dec. 20, 1937, the date fixed by the parole board. The prisoner entered the penitentiary in 1923 for a life term but became eligible for parole in 1933.

Vandervort pleaded guilty early in 1923 to second degree murder in the slaying of a night patrolman, Emery McCreight. Six months earlier Roy McKinney was convicted in the same killing and served nearly a year in the penitentiary before being cleared by Vandervort's confession.

The fatal shooting ended a 10-minute struggle between the officer and Richardson in an automobile which police said was stolen from Charleston on Nov. 29.

Spanish Towns Hunt For Dead After Bomb Invasions.

MADRID—(AP)—Barcelona and other towns of the government-held eastern coast of Spain and Palma, Balearic island air and naval base of the insurgents, sifted the debris of shattered buildings today for victims of rival air raids reported to have taken hundreds of casualties.

While 15 insurgent warplanes swept in from the Mediterranean yesterday to bomb Barcelona, capital of the Spanish republic, 24 government air raiders spanned the 150 miles of sea between the eastern coast and Mallorca to strike a devastating blow at the insurgents' base at Palma.

A heavy toll of dead and injured was reported from Barcelona and other coastal towns caught in the roaring sweep of the insurgent air armada.

BATES MUM ON HOLD-UP CASE

Has 'No Comment' on Search for Finance Company Bandits.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, back from a trip that kept him out of town for nearly two days on what he said was a clue to the gunmen who held up the Franklin Finance company last Saturday, had "no comment" to make today.

He declined to reveal where the trip had taken him, but said that he might have to make another trip in the next few days.

He stated emphatically that the pair had not been identified. "If they were we'd have them locked up here," he said.

WOLFE RETURNS

County Auditor, Ill For Month, Back On Job.

Ill for nearly a month with pneumonia, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe braved the snowstorm to return to his office this morning.

"I'm still a little weak, but I feel fine," Wolfe said. He planned to be at the office for only a short time, however, on the advice of his physician to "take it easy."

COUNCIL LOSES MEETING PLACE

Finds Plumbers Have Occupied By Plumbers So They Jam Into Clerk's Office.

Members of city council had a most surprised look on their faces last night when they entered their regular meeting quarters in the municipal court room last night.

"Why, er—what's this," Council President Claude M. Hunter mumbled in a surprised tone as he found the chamber occupied

When the speaker, who had the floor stated that it was a meeting of the master plumbers, Hunter heaved a sigh of relief. "I thought it was a delegation here with another protest."

Hunter then went to to explain that it was the regular monthly meeting of city council, which is always held the first Tuesday of every month, but told the group that council would gladly retire to the clerk's office for their session.

The speaker informed council that Service-Safety Director Philip Wolfe had granted the use of the rooms for the meeting only a few days ago, and that they would be glad to vacate.

However, Hunter declined and council members and a score of other persons jammed into the small office of Council Clerk William J. Beer.

It wasn't so comfortable as it might have been for some—especially those who had to stand during the four-hour session, one of the longest on record during the year.

Wolfe stood in the corridor when council members entered the court room, but retired to the clerk's office without comment and found himself a chair—and remained seated during the meeting.

LEAPS TO DEATH

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Julius Jenney, of Cleveland, jumped to his death from the sixth floor of a hotel here yesterday.

Night Clubs Fight Curfew, File Petition

Ask Solons to Amend City Ordinance; Councilman Miller Joins In Plea.

Combatting Police Chief Meade K. Bates' 1 a. m. curfew order issued last Friday, 34 liquor permit holders last night asked city council to amend the existing ordinance to conform with regulations of the Ohio Liquor control board permitting a 2:30 a. m. closing hour for night clubs.

Fifth Ward Councilman Fred Miller, proprietor of the Miller Brothers cafe at 151 Orange street, was among the 34 signers of the petition that was presented to council.

Among the other operators joining in the appeal were Willis Wappner of the Wonder Bar, South Park street; Peter DiSanze, manager of the Greystone Night Club on West Fourth street; Peter Miller, Silver Slipper, North Walnut street; R. J. Matthes and C. M. Matthes, Office Cafe, South Main street; Frank Nezerich, Caricoa Cafe, 78 Wayne street; Lehman and Miller night club, 90 Orange street; S. G. Christ, New Deal restaurant, 103 North Walnut street, and Max Miller, East Side night club, 161 Orange street.

Given to Committee.

Council President Claude M. Hunter, who received the request, turned the petition over to a special committee composed of Russell D. Porch, Lester Hunter, [illegible]

The petition asks that a 1:30 a. m. closing hour for night clubs be incorporated in an ordinance to conform with the liquor control board's regulations. The present city ordinance calls for a 1 a. m. closing hour for all liquor permit holders.

The operators also request that legislation be enacted that will keep all places where intoxicating drinks are sold, including 3.2 beer, closed on Sunday.

Following his order last Friday that the curfew would be strictly enforced, Bates said he had issued an extention of 30 days to permit clubs to adjust their contracts with dance bands and floor shows.

Ex-Richland Relief Auditor In Court For Embezzlement.

Howard G. Lattimer of near Mansfield, was sentenced to 18 months in a correctional institution today by U. S District Judge Mell G. Underwood on a charge of embezzlement.

Lattimer at one time was an auditor in the Richland county relief administration.

Tyger (and Camera) Fan To Preside At 'Victory Banquet'

If you saw many Mansfield High school football games last season, you undoubtedly saw a stockily-built chap, armed with a high-speed camera following the action up and down the field, snapping pictures constantly.

He was Paul W. Williams, secretary manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and an ardent football fan, especially where Mansfield High teams are concerned. He likes to take football pictures, and he liked especially well to take pictures of Tyger touchdowns.

Williams, because he is a first-ranking Tyger fan, and because he thinks a lot of the Tyger players, has been chosen by The News-Journal to be toastmaster at its third annual "Victory banquet" for the school gridders, at the Mansfield-Leland hotel one week from tonight.

To him will fall the task of keeping the party moving—of introducing Coaches Russ Murphy and Harry Mehock, and the rest of the guests—to say nothing of having the honor of introducing that Mansfield native son, and all-

MASS TROOPS FOR CAPTURE OF NANKING

Hostilities to Crush City to Start at Any Moment, Non-Combatants Told.

THOUSANDS ENDANGERED

Won't Guarantee Safety of Refugees; 17 Americans In Beleaguered City.

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Japanese ministry authorities tonight warned all foreigners and Chinese non-combatants to evacuate beleaguered Nanking as quickly as possible.

"Hostilities may engulf the city any moment," they said.

Through Suemasa Okamoto, Japanese consul general at Shanghai, the authorities requested representatives of foreign powers, including the United States, to inform their respective nationals of the impending struggle in the evacuated Chinese capital.

Notifies Washington.

United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss transmitted the Japanese warning to American diplomatic representatives at Nanking and informed Washington of the development. There were 17 Americans in Nanking.

The Japanese said they considered the former capital "one large fortification" and therefore could not give the Chinese non-combatants and foreigners the assurance of safety in the so-called refugee zone.

Thousands of Chinese, who took no active part in the defense of the city, were huddled in the refugee district.

"Persons therein should evacuate," the Japanese spokesman said. "[illegible] the place responsible."

While indicating that a major struggle for the former capital was imminent, the Japanese today reported no major developments in that sector, about 180 miles west and slightly north of Shanghai.

Military and naval spokesmen said land and water divisions of the Japanese military machine, acting in concert, had reduced Chinese opposition in the vicinity of Kiangyin forts, about 100 miles east and down the Yangtze river from Nanking.

Cross Yangtze River.

They said that army units crossed the Yangtze river there under a curtaining naval barrage and had occupied Tsingkiang on the northern shore, preparatory to a northwestward rush that would parallel the Japanese advance on Nanking along the southern bank.

Reports through Japanese channels said the Japanese command would issue an ultimatum demanding surrender of beleaguered Nanking to avoid a heavy toll of life and possible destruction of the city.

The reports declared the ultimatum would ask Chinese General Tang Shen-Chi, commander of the Nanking garrison, to surrender the city and 300,000 Chinese soldiers.

Council Creates Police Clerk Job, Girl, 18, Named

A position of stenographer-clerk in the police department was created by city council last night at the request of Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

Bates then announced that Miss Helen Baughman, 18, of 12 South Adams street, who has been doing part time work in the department for the last six weeks, but who has not been on the city payroll, would be appointed.

Miss Baughman's duties will consist of stenographic work and the caring for police department files, Bates said. Her salary was fixed by council at $75 a month providing she can give bond for $1,000.

The chief said he also plans to have Miss Baughman take over the duties now performed by Patrolman H. G. Palmer who is in charge of records and files, including traffic tickets.

"This will make Palmer available for outside duty and will be the same as adding another man to the force," the chief explained.

Palmer, who will go back into uniform for the first time in nearly a year, will either be assigned to a beat or cruiser duty.

HELD IN SHEEP THEFT

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ray E. Ross, 35, and Harold Riley, 29, were bound over to a grand jury today after pleading innocent to grand larceny charges before Justice of the Peace E. C. Miller. Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky said the pair admitted stealing 66 lambs from the Edward C. Turner farm here.

Those Who Rail Against Jobs Annoy

By VIRGINIA LEE

I'm moved to write a little piece about jobs. I'm talking about my job and your job — anybody's job.

How many people do you know who are satisfied with the type of work they are doing? Don't they talk of the "racket" they are in? Don't we hear them refer to their places of business as "lousy dumps"?

Of course a great deal of that kind of talk is simply talk. They don't mean it and everyone knows they don't, and most of us have a pretty fair sense of loyalty to the firms for which we are working.

But thow many people get real joy out of their jobs—joy that they are conscious of and that makes them work at it hard just for the sake of working? Mrs. June Hamilton Rhodes told the other day about a salesgirl who sold a dress to a customer but couldn't tell the customer a thing about the particular qualities that her firm wanted especially to stress in connection with the material of which the gown was made.

Another time a particular type of dress was being given publicity in a store through advertising, etc., and one clerk in the department in which that dress was sold had no idea about it. She did not know about the dress or its selling points or anything.

I don't want to seem to pick on clerks in stores. They usually are a swell, hardworking lot, with Job's patience in trying situations. I take them as an example because it was of salespersons that Mrs. Rhodes was talking.

Now, I bet those girls did not care much for their jobs. There was no joy in them for them. It is surprising how interesting a job becomes if we try to do it to the best of our ability and find out all about it.

There are a few jobs that it is pretty hard to make glamorous—such as scrubbing floors and dusting, for instance. But there is a great pleasure in a clean house that makes up for the drudgery of making it clean. On the other hand, a miner once told me that he liked his work—it was warm and protected in winter when other people had to be out in the cold and storm, and cool in summer.

I am always prejudiced against the person who talks long and loud about what a "rotten" job he or she has and how they are discriminated against and others promoted over them.

Hairline Needs Special Care These Days

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

WOMEN KID about the high foreheads of the lads in the bald-headed row in theaters. Yet whether they know it or not, their 15th century forebears considered extremely high foreheads --foreheads that continued right up to the top of the head—the tops in fashion. It was customary for the shebas of that age to burn off the hair that grew in at the front of their heads with some frightful chemical in order to achieve the desired effect.

Today, of course, we know better than to submit ourselves to any such harmful procedure, and yet even today one often sees unattractive hairlines at the front of the head. Oftentimes, of course, it's the fault of nature. But sometimes it is our own carelessness that ruins what would ordinarily be an asset to beauty. As a rule, moderately low foreheads are more likely to present pretty hairlines than very high ones.

Some foreheads are so very high that they are difficult to make attractive, but if you do possess a pretty hairline, now's the time to show it. For our hat and coiffure styles call for off-the-forehead hair arrangements, and a pretty hairline can greatly enhance the smartness of a girl's ensemble.

One frequently sees, sad to say, grimy hairlines on women who are otherwise perfectly immaculate. The reason for such hairlines, as a rule, is because, due to the activity of the oil and perspiratory glands, dirt and grime accumulate quite rapidly on the scalp around the hairline. In addition, particles of powder from frequent powder applications are inclined to settle around the edges of the hair, and because of the sebum, cling tenaciously. As a result, the powder, grime and oil form a pasty border of dirt that is most unattractive. You probably have noticed such hairlines yourself, but do you also always check up on your own?

Proper Cleansing Is Answer.

Such a condition, of course, would not be apparent if women cleansed their faces properly. But many girls are so afraid of getting soap or cream into their tresses that they fail to remove the grimy accumulations, and leave a most distressing border of dirt around the hairline.

Before cleansing the face, the hair should always be banded back with a strip of gauze or some like medium. A regular make-up cap is very effective for this purpose. Such caps can be procured in stiff materials, in linen and muslin, and in soft mesh form. If such a cap is worn or the hair properly banded back, there is not much danger of any soap getting into the hair. And even if, occasionally, a bit of it does get in around the hairline, it will prove in no way harmful if it is thoroughly rinsed.

It is a good plan to brush the hair up and back from the hairline after cleansing and before making up the face, in order to remove any dirt and grime that may have accumulated in that area. A powder-blending brush should also be used when make-up has been applied, to brush any bits of powder from the hairline. This will tend to do away with any accumulations and will keep the hairline clean and perfect.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I WAS SO relieved at Dicky's approval, even if grudging, of the sabotage I had authorized Jim to commit upon Noel's car that my reaction to his question concerning Philip Veritzen's reception of the news was a calmness, even a cool indifference, that surprised me.

"What can he do?" I asked. "He's hundreds of miles away; he can't possibly get down here, and he knows enough about cars to know that a clutch job isn't something you can get fixed in a few minutes."

"There's one thing he can do." Dicky said slowly, and stopped, with a tantalizing grin.

I rose and faced him truculently.

He stopped with the evident intention of kissing me, but I knew from the expression of his eyes that his was a teasing mood and not an amorous one, and I dodged expertly.

Wants Answer.

"I'm not having any kisses just now, thank you, "I told him pertly, "at any rate, until after I've had my questions answered."

He sent a clever imitation of a hollow groan into the air.

"A loan shark at his worst has nothing on you," he said. "But consider the sponge in the ring. Here's what I mean. When old Phil Veritzen hears of that accident, it's going to take him about one-fifteenth of a split second to order Noel back by taxi, train, airplane or what have you.

I stared at him open mouthed.

"But, Dicky," I stammered, "what will he do about the car?"

Very soberly and slowly he turned his right hand palm upward, and rapped lightly with his knuckles upon my head, pausing as if to listen after his rap.

Stop at Nothing.

"As I thought," he said when he had finished. "It's absolutely hollow. The knocks reverberate. And it's almost impervious, too. I'm going to have a tough time getting anything to penetrate it. But I'm game. Listen, dear heart. Did you ever know Phil Veritzen to care a tinker's damn about the cost of a car, or of anything else that stood in his way?"

"No, I didn't," I admitted weakly.

"Well, then," he swept on triumphantly, "what price Noel's extended leave when his condemned old dad gets him on the phone? You'll only have run Noel up a bill without doing him one bit of good."

The words were like a spur, snapping me out of the daze in which his raillery, and his really alarming premise, had plunged me.

"Then," I said with decision,, "he mustn't get Noel on the phone."

It was his turn to stare at me.

"And how are you going to manage that little thing?" he asked.

"I don't know yet," I said coolly, "but it's going to be managed. It will involve what you so delicately term 'doubling for Sapphira,' but I shall salve my conscience with the remembrance of the worthy cause I am sponsoring, and also—"I stopped

Overlooked Bet?

"I'll finish the sentence for you," Dicky said, laughing. "'And also with the delight of sticking pins in old Phil Veritben.' Aint so?"

"Something like that," I said, echoing his laugh, and then suddenly realizing that his face had sobered.

"You've overlooked one little bet—rather one quite large," he said.

"What is it?" I countered.

"Have you considered the probable effect upon your theatrical fortunes and Mary's of your angering Philip Vertizen?" he asked.

When making glass curtains be sure to allow for shrinkage. They sometimes shrink three inches.

A little chopped green pepper or pimento gives zest to scrambled eggs to be served for luncheon or supper.

Do not remove the "fell," that thin papery substance which covers the outside of the lamb, from the leg but remove it from chops. The leg will keep its shape better and cook more quickly if the fell is left in place. Chops will be nicer if this skin is peeled off, because they are cooked so quickly it does not have time to get tender as it does in roasting.

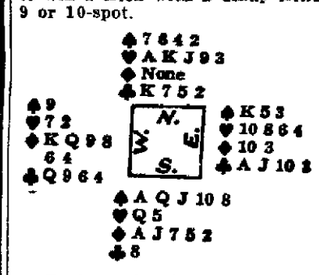
"The Authority on Authorities"

WASTING GOOD CARDS

THERE ARE players who get a kick out of overtaking one of their own honors with another. Some have a tendency to do that upon every possible occasion, even though sometimes it turns out that they could not afford the extravagance. They may find to their chagrin that the suit does not break as they hoped and therefore a defender is enabled to win a trick with a dinky little 9 or 10-spot.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Here South's opening bid was 1-Spade, which West overcalled with 2-Diamonds. North put in a bid of 2-Hearts, South 3-Spades, North 4-Diamonds, South 4-Spades, North 5-Spades and South six.

West led the club 4, which declarer covered with the K and East won with the A. Figuring he had no better return, East returned another club, which South ruffed with the spade 8. Placing an extremely long diamond suit with West to account for his overcall without even the club A, declarer feared entering dummy via diamond ruffs, so played the heart Q and overtook. The spade finesse was successful and another spade finesse tried. The remaining outstanding trump was drawn and a diamond ruffed to cash the remaining hearts. However, as the suit was not evenly divided, the declarer was unable to make his contract.

It should have been apparent to South from the start that if he decided to use hearts as entries to dummy he would block himself and that the diamond ruffs were more logical, even though there was the danger of an overruff.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What defense by East sets South's 3-No Trumps contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Dec. 9.

A PROGRESSIVE, prosperous and pleasant day, with much of gain and gratification in business and private lives, is read from the dominant astral interventions. Elders and others in influential positions, property and important business or financial operations, all combine for profitable and pleasant denouements.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a happy, prosperous and progressive year, with property, business, finance and work flourishing. Elders and those in high places may render support and friendship.

A child born on this day may be capable, industrious, ambitious and should gain the friendly recognition of elders and important persons. Its amiable and happy disposition may contribute to its social and personal prestige.

THEATER

HERE and there — Humphrey Bogart and Eric Hatch (he wrote "My Man Godfrey") have wagered $1,000 on a golf game that will last about a year and a half. . . . Each Sunday they each take one stroke, mark the spot where the ball landed and start from there the next week. . . . As both shoot in the 80's, the bet won't be decided until 1939. . . . Leo Carrillo and Victor Fleming have a daffy crop-raising bet. . . . Both own ranches and are planting oats on identical plots of ground . . . the one which makes the biggest crop wins a saddle horse.

"Angel."

A serious problem arises when a woman's husband is too busy and pre-occupied to spend any time with her, particularly when she meets and is attracted by another sympathetic man. This situation forms the theme of Marlene Dietrich's latest starring vehicle, "Angel," opening at the Ohio theater Thursday. Things run along rather smoothly until the man of the romantic interlude in Paris shows up to live in the same town and society circles as Miss Dietrich and her statesman husband. Herbert Marshall, Melvyn Douglas, Edward Everett Horton and Herbert Mundin support the star.

Finds Romance.

When a girl with a past steps into the spotlight of fame anything can happen—and for Claire Trevor it happens all at once in "Big Town Girl," showing at the Madison theater today and tomorrow. Three men—Donald Woods, Alan Dinehart and Alan Baxter—provide the background for Miss Trevor's adventures. One wants to share her life, one wants to take her life and the other wants to write a story of her life. It all starts when her bank-robbing husband escapes from prison. To keep away from him she takes a job singing in an out-of-the-way night spot. Almost over night she climbs to fame.

Dramatic Offering.

Drama filled minutes are offered by both of the movies being shown at the Majestic today and tomorrow. "They Won't Forget" is a murder mystery of the brain-spinning type based on the Ward Greene novel, "Death In the Deep South." The other picture, "Some Blondes Are Dangerous," belies its name in that it is the story of a prize-fighter and his struggle up the ladder, followed by his quick descent. The leading role is played by Noah Berry, jr. The blonde, Dorothea Kent, is the root of all evil in this case, but the valiant and loving old sweetheart, Nan Grey, aids the picture to a climatic end.

Music, Excitement.

From "Confession" starring Kay Francis, Ian Hunter and Basil Rathbone to "Topper" featuring Connie Bennett, Carey Grant, Roland Young and Billie Burke is a far cry on the movie front, but such are the offerings of the bill at the Ritz for tomorrow and Thursday. "Confession," a top-notch drama, shows Miss Francis in the role of a once great singer who has descended to the cabaret level. "Topper" stars a pair of mad-caps in the role of ghosts materialized to try to show a staid and sedate Roland Young how to have fun.

Henry Made Debut With Mediocre Team

It Took Stamina to Play Football In Pre-War Period When All-Time All-American Broke In at Mansfield High School.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles about Wilbur F. Henry, former All-America football star of Washington & Jefferson college, who will be the principal speaker at the annual high school football banquet to be staged by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday, Dec. 15. Henry is now athletic director at W. & J.

* * * * *

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

HOW well W. F. (Pete) Henry remembers his baptism in football, the sport in which he twice earned All-America recognition on teams selected by the immortal Walter Camp.

The illustrious Mansfield boy, now athletic director at Washington and Jefferson college, Washington, Pa., vividly recalls the handicaps under which the gridder of his high school days had to play.

PETE HENRY

Back in his day, a boy had to be rugged to survive the bone-crushing type of offense. Stamina was paramount in importance in the selection of a team.

Two games a week was not an unusual chore for a team in the pre-war period. Such schedules are not permitted in the present day of football, but high school athletics were not controlled in those days by associations.

"We played as often as we could schedule games," Henry, who will appear as the principal speaker at the annual banquet to be tendered the Mansfield high school squad by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday, Dec. 15, said. "In the latter part of my first season at Mansfield high, we played three games in six days."

On a Saturday, Mansfield defeated Mt. Vernon, 7 to 0. Mansfield won from Shelby, 6 to 0, on Tuesday (Incidentally, Shelby's only defeat of the year), and lost to the Alumni, 39 to 0, on Thursday, Thanksgiving day.

Henry's football debut was made as a sophomore in 1912. There were no artistic steel stadiums in those days with soft, expertly-manicured greenwards. Henry recalls that it was necessary to dodge rocks and holes as often as tackles on some fields.

Although he played against the greatest collegiate and pro clubs of his day, Henry's first year in football was probably his most discouraging.

Henry well remembers the first game in which he ever participated. He received his baptism in Crestline, Sept. 13, 1912, and was inserted at a guard position.

He states that at the time he was not sure whether he'd ever be able to eliminate the cleat marks that the Crestline players left on him that day. Crestline won the game, 53 to 0.

This was a bad whipping, Henry admits, but the defeats became more decisive as the season progressed. It was not until the fifth game that Mansfield scored a touchdown. The first victory came late in October.

Akron Central was the second opponent, and Mansfield was trounced by a 74 to 0 margin. It was in this game that Henry made his first appearance at a tackle, the position at which he gained All-America honors.

* * * * *

Massillon Was Tough In Those Days, Too.

THE third game found Mansfield taking an 87 to 0 trimming from Massillon, which also was tough in those days, and Shelby took Henry and company into camp by a 19 to 0 count on the following week.

The first game for which Henry ever received mention in a story came the next week. His great defensive play was deserving of a paragraph in the story which described Akron Central's 99 to 6 triumph rout of Mansfield at League park. Dr. D. M. Leuthner, Mansfield dentist, a half, scored the Mansfield touchdown.

"Henry played a strong game at right tackle," according to The Mansfield News, and scored a touchdown as Mansfield won its first game of the season at the expense of Marion, 13 to 0, but the following week again found the home town boys taking it on the chin. Fostoria administered a 74 to 0 beating.

Mansfield then concluded its season with victories over Greenwich, 13 to 7; Mt. Vernon and Shelby, and a defeat by the Alumni, which was led by Al Schad, then captain and fullback of the Ohio State freshmen team.

During the latter part of the season, Henry was shifted to the backfield, and it was in this department in which he came into his own.

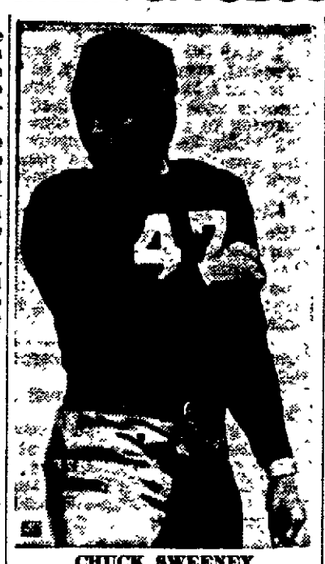
In a story summarizing the season, The Mansfield News said: "Henry will no doubt be shifted to the backfield next year, as he has shown up well in carrying the ball. His weight gives him a decided advantage."

CHUCK SWEENEY TRAVELS FROM SUB TO ALL-AMERICA CLUB IN SIX WEEKS

SOUTH BEND—(AP)—Put aside those Horatio Alger fables, you day dreamers, and listen to the story of Chuck Sweeney, who jumped from substitute to All-America in six weeks.

Once upon a time, when the football season began at Notre Dame, a husky Irishman named Charles A. Sweeney was a second-string end. The outlook for him wasn't too bright, for Captain Joe Zwers had the first-team job.

But, like all Irish lads, Sweeney kept plugging. He hit hard and ture when given a chance, and lo and behold, it wasn't long before



CHUCK SWEENEY

Chuck was on the field and the captain on the bench.

He got his opportunity, cashed in and held on. Captain Zwers couldn't oust him.

In his second starting game, Chuck drove through a fourth period snow storm to tackle Navy's Alan McFarland behind the goal for the safety that gave Notre Dame a 9-7 triumph.

Just a week later he blocked a Minnesota kick for point after touchdown. This gave the South Benders a 7-6 victory.

He "won" his third game of the season when he blocked a Northwestern punt and recovered for a touchdown. Notre Dame won, 7-0.

Chuck is one of those opportunists who always seems to be at the right spot at the right time. All-America selection, regarded by most players as football's top honor, generally goes to seniors who, after distinguishing themselves during two previous seasons, conclude their playing tenure in remarkable fashion.

But Sweeney has shown that a player, virtually unknown as a sophomore or junior, and a captain's substitute at the outset of his senior year can make the All-America.

FOUR TEAMS SHARE LEAD

Turn In Victories In Second Week of Season on Y. M. C. A. Court.

Four cage combines continued in a tie for first place by chalking up victories in the Church Class B basketball league at the Y. M. C. A last night.

The First Lutherans, Baptist, First Presbyterians and Mayflower were the four clubs battling for sole possession of first place in the tight loop race.

The Lutherans swamped Central M. E., 32 to 12; the Baptist walloped First M. E, 28 to 7; the First Presbyterian smothered B'Nai Jacob, 31 to 10, to register their second triumphs, while the Mayflower cagers defeated the First Christians, 19 to 12, for their first victory.

St. John's registered victory No 1, by defeating South Main, 26 to 9

Church Teams Play Tonight

Lutheran, Mayflower Vie In First Game at Y.

Tonight's games in the Y. M. C. A. Church Class A league will provide another night of action for basketball followers at the Y.

First Lutheran, which dropped its first game last week, meets Mayflower, victor over Episcopal, in the first game at 7 p. m. The second game sends St. Paul's, making its first start, against Baptist, defeated in its debut, at 7:45.

Central M. E. meets St. John's, and First M. E. tackles Episcopal in the other games. Temple Emanuel is not scheduled this week.

BISHOPS SELECT GLANCY

DELAWARE — (AP) — Manus Glancy of Barberton, quarterback, was elected honorary captain of Ohio Wesleyan university's 1937 football team last night. Fred Schroeder of Cleveland, end, was chosen most valuable player.

TYGERS FACE ANOTHER TOUGH TEST THIS WEEK

Hosts to Columbus South Which Showed Power In Vanquishing Grandview.

MANSFIELD'S TYGERS found the going extremely tough in their opener with Akron Kenmore last week, and they absorbed a 22 to 20 trimming.

Their second game of the new season promises as much trouble, according to the result of their next foe's opening contest.

Columbus South, which provides the opposition for Mansfield Friday night at the high school, opened its season with a one-sided 39 to 25 victory over Columbus Grandview.

Ranked With Favorites.

The triumph over the strong Grandview aggregation installs South as one of the favorites in the forthcoming Columbus city cage race.

Eight players were used by Coach Kermit Blossed in the Grandview tilt, and only one failed to score. This is an indication that the Bulldogs pack a scoring punch.

Two of the chief scoring menaces in the South lineup are Capt. McLain, the center, and Golden, a guard, who led the point-making in the opener. Golden accounted for 11 of the points.

Fitch, a forward, and Gillespie, another guard, are other serious scoring threats, according to reports from Columbus.

Experiments With Club.

Coach Russ Murphy, who realizes the size of the task confronting the Tygers Friday, expects to show a stronger team on the court against South.

Murphy is experimenting with various lineup changes in this week's workouts.

Smith Opposed To E Leagues

Contends They Will Hurt "D" Circuits.

COLUMBUS—Harry Smith, founder and president of the Ohio State Baseball league, is opposed to the formation of class E circuits.

He maintains that they would prove seriously detrimental to class D loops such as the Ohio State league. Players in class E would be paid considerably less for baseball playing but would be permitted to work in factories and stores for other remuneration. Consequently, their combined salaries would be considerably more than paid in class D. That, according to President Smith, makes them reluctant to serve time in class D.

President Smith will probably lose his fight, which he waged in the course of the meeting of minor leagues at Milwaukee, but he is still crusading against the innovation Class E leagues, though, will probably be given a year's trial.

PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT

Senior League Teams Resume Sked at Friendly House.

Wind Up Dull Major Session With Ball Discussion Today

Magnates of American League Vote to Retain 1937 Pellet, While National Club Owners Seek Deader Spheroid for Next Season.

By PAUL MICKELSON

CHICAGO—(AP)—American leaguers will keep on their primrose path of happy customers and home runs for 1938 while their National league cousins got back to the old skin game of squeeze play, shorter hits and photo finish games.

A bit sore at each other's wilfulness in the matter, the American leaguers voted yesterday to retain the old lively ball whereas the National leaguers, unblessed by such home run hitters as Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx, decided to go back to the deader horsehide.

Little Difference.

What the difference in the baseball will be is anybody's guess. One ball manufacturer said the American league ball would travel but a few feet farther than the National brand while another said the difference might be as much as 200 more home runs for the Americans. In manufacture, the new National league sphere has a slightly heavier cover and five strands of thread instead of four.

Both league heads blamed the other for the split.

"We were in complete agreement to change the ball," explained President Ford Frick of the Nationals, "and the American leaguers suddenly backed out, leaving us with no other possible action but to go ahead with the deader ball."

"We were open to a change but failed to find a new one that looked better for our purposes than the one we used last season," said American League President Will Harridge.

Meet Jointly Today.

Both leagues meet in joint session today, final one of the annual convention, and there is a bare possibility the Nationals may relent and decide to use the old ball for another year.

Only activity of the trading mart today was a catcher trade which sent Earl Grace of the Philadelphia Phillies to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Cap Clark, a youngster who played with the Houston club of the Texas league and Columbus in the American association.

The meeting was almost over and Brooklyn still had its problem child, Pitcher Van Mungo, on its hands with no deal in sight; the Chicago Cubs still were stymied by their own refusal to trade Outfielder Frank Demaree; the proposed deal between the Chicago White Sox and Washington fell through when the Senators refused to accept Zeke Bonura and Lou Berger for Joe Kuhel and Buddy Myer.

Inmates Rout Canzols, 41-26

Score Easy Victory Over City League Entry.

The Ohio State Reformatory cagers defeated Ira D. Ling's Canzols, 41 to 26, on the reformatory court last night.

The Inmates, who recently bowed to the strong Yuncker Sports, encountered little trouble from the Canzols, a City Class A league club.

Taking a 13-4 lead in the opening frame the reformatory club, led by Moore, Smith and Calhoun, with 10 points each, maintained a comfortable lead throughout the battle.

After grabbing the lead in the initial stanza, the Inmates increased their advantage to a 25-9 count at the half. And as play was resumed in the final chapter the winners were leading 33-17. Fred Buzzard paced the losers with 10 points

REJECTS AKRON GAME

Kent to Await Outcome of Future Zipper Athletic Policy.

PREPS FOR LEXINGTON

Ontario Faces Minutemen, While Rams Entertain Butler Friday.

Ontario high's defending championship cagers face another tough assignment Friday night when they invade Lexington for a Richland county basketball league tilt with the Minutemen.

While the champions are seeking their second straight victory, the Rams of Madison high act as hosts to the dangerous Butler Knights and Lucas will attempt to regain its winning stride when it tackles Bellville at Bellville. Union (formerly Weller) is idle

Coach Orville Kibler's athletes, who last season emerged from the league competition without a defeat, made an impressive debut last week by beating the twice-victorious Lucas combine.

Lexington, although defeated by Lucas and Johnsville, is improving and is expected to give the Ontarioans a stiff battle. Kibler had his proteges hard at work developing a defense which he hopes will halt the Minutemen's all-county center, Richard Rule.

The green-clad Rams, fresh from a one-sided triumph over Bellville in their opening game, are brushing up their defensive game as they prepare for the invasion of Coach M. L. Stearns' club.

Clint Frank Awarded Heisman Trophy.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Clint Frank of Yale university and Evanston, Ill., today has tangible proof of the fact that he "has everything." He has, first of all, the John W. Heisman memorial trophy, awarded each year to the nation's outstanding all-around college football player. He has, further, a place on virtually every All-America team.

And he has, in addition, the admiration and respect of each of the 1,000 guests who turned out at the Downtown Athletic club last night to hear Frank's praises sung and witness his acceptance of the handsome bronze statuette.

Army Changes Eligibility

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(UP)—All athletic links were closed today to collegiate stars who, having completed three years of varsity competition elsewhere wish to continue sports careers at West Point.

The same eligibility rules which prevail at Annapolis and other leading colleges will govern Army varsity teams henceforth, Major General William D. Connor, superintendent, announced.

Previously, three years of varsity competition was allowed any cadet irrespective of college experience. It was this disregard of rules prevailing in virtually every college in the country that precipitated the famous break in Army-Navy football relations in 1928, and caused Big Ten teams to drop the West Pointers from schedules.

CHUCK CHUCKS 'EM

Last Winter's Scoring Leader Hangs Up 24 Points.

Chuck Chuckovits, Ohio's scoring champion last season, hit a dizzy 24-point pace to lead Toledo university basketeers to a 61-23 inaugural triumph over Bluffton college at Toledo. Chuckovits talhed 10 goals and four gift shots. The Rockets led at half-time, 34-10.

Shelby Five to Entertain Bellevue Friday.

Every club in the North Central Ohio basketball conference will parade its cage talent on the hardwood this week-end in non-league attractions.

Shelby high's Whippets, who bowed to Norwalk last week, will entertain Bellevue Friday night, and Bucyrus, victorious over New Washington in its debut last Friday, act as hosts to Plymouth's Twin-Valley league club. The Harding Presidents, who beat Upper Sandusky last Saturday, will attempt to register their second triumph when they clash with Delaware Willis at Marion.

The two clubs that were idle last week, Ashland and Galion, open their seasons Friday night. The Orangemen travel to Willard and Ashland invades Norwalk.

The Yellow Jackets of Mt. Vernon tackle their second assignment of the season Saturday night when they entertain Columbus North. Mt Vernon beat Upper Sandusky, last week in its debut.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED

Barons Meet Leading Phillies in Arena Saturday.

CLEVELAND — The greatest crowd ever to witness a hockey game in Ohio will pack Cleveland's new Arena Saturday night to see the up and coming Barons tangle with Philadelphia's Ramblers, pace-setters of the International-American hockey league's eastern division. The local attendance of 8,512 for last Saturday's conflict with Providence was a new league record as well as the third new high locally in as many games.

Cleveland's fear of not being defeated on home ice this year, coupled with their 3 to 1 triumph over the league leading Syracuse Stars at Syracuse Sunday afternoon has jacked up the box office sale.

Pros Set New Team Records

Redskins Break Week-Old Passing Standard.

NEW YORK—(UP)—Three team records were established and three of five 1936 leaders were displaced in the National Professional football league, statistics showed today.

Due to the individual brilliance of Sammy Baugh, making his professional debut with Washington, the Redskins broke the week-old passing record set by Green Bay. Completing 99 passes in 222 attempts for an efficiency average of 44.5 per cent they bettered the Packers' mark of 43.9 per cent. The Packers completed 95 of 216 throws to break their last year record of 41 per cent efficiency.

The league record for forward passing also was bettered, 594 out of 1,543 being completed for a mark of 38.5 per cent compared to last year's 36.5 per cent.

Third mark to be shattered was the league scoring record. Ten teams amassed 1424 points. The old record was 1302 set in 1932 by nine teams.

BOWLS 14 '300' GAMES

ADOLPH CARLSON

CHICAGO —(AP)— The apple of every bowler's eye, the coveted "perfect game," has lost its luster for Adolph (Swede) Carlson, former match-game champion, and Sweden's gift to bowling.

He has a collection of 14 charmed 300's — five of them comine within two weeks.

Mate Rolls One, Too.

He is a member of the famous Pabst Blue Ribbon team. He and Eddie Krems, team captain, each tolled 300 games during a team-match series—probably the only time this has been accomplished in bowling history.

Carlson is considered by Chicago's foremost keglers to be the nearest approach to perfection in the game. Delivering a powerful, sharp-breaking "hook" ball, he rarely crosses the head pin and is consistently in the 1-3 pocket.

Bowling 984 games in the fast Chicago Classic league since its organization five years ago, he has compiled a grand average of 211 — including two perfect games. He has been this circuit's leading bowler on four occasions, with averages of 205, 207, 213 and 218. He finished second on the other occasion with an averaged of 220. His 2074 all-events total in the Illinois state tournament still stands as a record.

Never ABC Winner.

Despite his many bowling accomplishments, he has never won any American Congress bowling titles. These have eluded him on two occasions—both in the same year—when he finished second in both the doubles and the all-events.

Queried on how to get those 300 games, he said:—

"You just gotta be lucky."

NEW TUNNEY BOASTS SCHMELING STOCK

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—After yesterday at Madame Bey's training emporium, there can be no further doubt that Gene Tunney is expanding and mellowing in the ripeness of his 39 years.

No one out at Madame Bey's retreat in New Jersey would believe it when word arrived that the former champion was going to watch Max Schmeling work out. Nine years had passed since he had hung up the gloves, and in that time he never had done more than bow stiffly to the business that made him his fortune.

But he showed up on time, bustled genially into the heart of the camp—Madame Bey's dining room—and for two hours appeared to enjoy himself like a kid out of school.

He sat and sipped wine and swapped loud talk with a score of sports writers and roundly deplored the local movement to boycott Schmeling's bout with Harry Thomas Monday night at Madison Square Garden because he is a Nazi.

Some of those who had tried long but unsuccessfully to get acquainted with Tunney back in the days when he was champion of the world sat aside and listened in silent amazement. "I can't believe it's the same man," said one.

The little gymnasium was packed with townsfolk when Gene climbed the hill to watch Schmeling toil. He watched the German keenly, and didn't hesitate or split an infinitive in picking him to knock out Joe Louis cold again next June.

"He has the greatest right hand I ever saw. He could whip Louis tomorrow. There's no reason why he shouldn't win his title back at 32. I wasn't yet at my peak when I retired at 30."

TWO BUCKS ON TEAM

Zarnas, Wolf to Play In Shine Game In 'Frisco.

CHICAGO — (AP) — The list of players to represent the All-East football team, being assembled for the anual Shrine benefit East-West game at San Francisco New Year's day, was boosted to 19 today, with the acceptance of six additional players.

Four of the new additions were from the Western conference. They are Gus Zarnas, guard, and Ralph Wolf, center, from Ohio State, and Capt. Ray King, end, and Lou Midler, guard, of the "Big Ten" champions, Minnesota. The others were Andy Farkas, halfback, of Detroit, and Elmore Hackney, quarterback, of Duke university.

BUCKS REMAIN MYSTERY

Show Fair Class In Defeating Marietta In Inaugural.

MARIETTA—(UP)—Ohio State's basketball prospects remained a mystery today even though the Bucks opened their campaign here last night with a 29 to 23 triumph over Marietta college, holder of the Ohio conference championship in 1936.

With the exception of Jimmy Hull, sharpshooting junior forward from Greenfield, Ohio State showed scant offensive power. Hull scored 14 points.

RAMS TO DRAFT 'WHIZZER'

Cleveland Gets First Choice for Finishing In Cellar.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Byron (Whizzer) White, the University of Colorado's great quarterback and a unanimous All-America choice, will be drafted by the Cleveland Rams of the National professional football league for play next season, it was announced today. The Rams finished last in the league this year and automatically receive the first choice in the draft. Damon (Buzz) Wetzel, general manger of the club, said White would be the Rams' top choice.

SELECT BUYING LIFTS LEADERS IN SLOW MART

Fractional Gains Recorded In Small Turnover; Rails Are Favored.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market loafed along today with selective buying lifting a few leaders into higher ground.

On small turnover, price changes were generally recorded in fractions. Toward the second hour minus signs were sprinkled through the list.

Buying support was apathetic and selective. Rails were favored to a certain extent as were rubber and merchandising shares. Steels, aircraft and utilities lagged. Bonds tended a little higher. Commodities were mixed.

Among overnight developments the weekly review of "Iron Age" stood out. It found increasing signs of a revival in steel ingot production was due about mid-January. The usually sensitive scrap market, it reported, had already felt the change, with declines halted at most centers and some advances recorded.

Less cheering was the disclosure by the Edison Electric institute that power output for the week ended Dec. 4 had advanced considerably less than seasonally.

SEWAGE PLANT GOES 'IN RED'

Council Learns of Changes In Equipment as It Debates Request For Money.

money was to be used, McFarland explained today, to pay for a new truck, which was found necessary, and some office equipment.

George Berg, Sixth ward member, objected to the measure, saying he thought "the sewer rental set-up was supposed to finance the department."

McFarland replied that the sewer rentals would not meet the expenses this year because there had not been a full year's collection.

City Auditor Paul Kelley stated that $5,000 had been set up for the department to operate on this year.

"When council sets up an appropriation it should last for the year and city officials should abide by the same," he said.

"I think the mayor can tell you why the appropriations is necessary," he told council members.

McFarland then explained to council that unforeseen expenses had been incurred at the sewage disposal plant.

"Things happened down there that shouldn't have," the mayor said.

Asserting that some of the engineering at the plant wasn't "all that it should have been," he said "we had to make some changes at the plant and money was spent that could have been saved."

He said that he didn't care to talk about the changes that were made, during the meeting. However, he stated that two employes had been laid off to effect a savings.

Explains Experiments.

McFarland explained that since there are very few plants of this type in the country, some of the installations were necessarily of a more or less "experimental" nature.

"I didn't think we were running an experimental station. We pay good money for the operation of that plant," shot back Councilman George C. Kyle.

The ordinance passed when it came to a vote, with Berg casting the only dissenting vote.

The sewage plant was put in operation in February of this year. Sanitary sewer rental charges were also instituted, and these together with a $5,000 appropriation by council, was expected to be enough to operate the plant.

Ritz Announces 5 Pictures For 2nd Can Matinee

A "moom-pitcher" program that will send Johnny and Mary scurrying to the fruit cellar or the corner grocery store for their "ticket" to the Saturday can matinee at the Ritz, was announced today by Manager Sol Bernstein.

There will be five—count 'em—picture subjects on the program, with Frankie Darro, the intrepid boy hero doing his stuff in a Peter B. Kyne story, a stirring tale of "The Valley of Wanted Men"; an exceptional educational picture of "Nuri, The Elephant," and three cartoon comedies.

The show begins at 9:30 and runs for almost two hours. It is open to any person who brings a can of food for the Christmas baskets.

On the same day and at the same time the Majestic theater will offer an entirely different program, which is now being arranged. There too, admission will be food contributions for the Christmas baskets.

SHOW TO FILL 600 BASKETS

Muster Cheers Have to Raise $1,100 If City's Needy Feast Christmas Day.

big-eyed children who are victims of shiftless parents. . . .

All of these will receive baskets of food the day before Christmas from the Community Christmas fund, except those who are "adopted" by clubs or individuals.

Show to Fill Baskets.

The contents of those Christmas baskets depends entirely on what the Three Muster-Cheers make at their annual charity show on Dec. 18. To fill 600 baskets will cost approximately $1,600, and with a balance of $500 on hand from last year's show to start the project, the Muster-Cheers must raise at least $1,100.

There is little or no overhead on the Community Christmas fund project, as two full-time administration workers are paid by The News-Journal and the American Legion; Mansfield concerns contribute furniture, heat, light and telephone service for the headquarters office, and all other workers contribute their services. Last year when $1,700 was raised and 600 baskets distributed, the entire administration cost, including postcards, was $52.50.

In past years the show at the Ohio theater has grossed approximately $1,300, with $275 as the maximum cost of producing the show.

This year's show, one of the biggest ever attempted by the Muster-Cheers, is in rehearsal now, and tickets for the "Passing Parade" are being sold at a number of places over the city—The News-Journal office, the American Legion club, the city's four theaters, Tawse's Pharmacy, Shumaker's drug store, the Book Shop, the R. B. Maxwell shoe department, Tom Woodward's Confectionery, Schmidt and Peat, and Shaw's drug store.

REMODEL SHELBY POLICE STATION

SHELBY—Remodeling of the desk and radio rooms of the Shelby police department has been completed, according to Police Chief Leroy Coffey. Workmen are now remodeling the chief's room and fingerprinting department, Coffey said. Work is expected to be completed within two weeks.

PUTS LIMIT ON SPEED OF TAXIS

Council Orders Governors on All Cabs, Sets Maximum at 45 Miles an Hour.

the policies issued three of the companies here unless the governors were placed on the cabs.

He explained that an existing ordinance made it compulsory that the cab companies be insured; thus making it necessary that the cabs be equipped with the governors if they continue to operate.

On a motion made by Fourth Ward Councilman Lester Hunter, the ordinance was changed, setting the governors at 45 miles an hour. The ordinance was then passed by a vote of 6 to 2. Councilman Porch and Kyle cast the dissenting votes.

The measure provides that the cab companies shall have 30 days in which to equip their fleets.

It also provides that any police officer may at any time stop and inspect the cab speed.

Violation of any of the provisions set up in the ordinance carries a fine of not less than $10 and not more than $100 and jail sentences up to 10 days.

C. of C. Secretary, Ardent Tyger Supporter, to Be 1937 Toastmaster.

Y. Clinton, veteran referee of many of the east's big-time college games, who will let the folks in on what football looks like from where the referee stands.

Williams is the third News-Journal "Victory banquet" toastmaster. Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the reformatory, was the first, and D. O. Meese was the "master of ceremonies" last year.

Tickets for the banquet are now on sale at The News-Journal, Senior high school, Tawse pharmacy and Bates confectionery, West Fourth street. The price is $1.55 (tax included).

Judging from the current sale, a capacity crowd will attend the affair. Only 250 persons can be accommodated for the banquet, and those planning to attend are urged to obtain tickets immediately.

FARM CLASSES

Rural Electrification School to Open Thursday.

The first of three classes in Richland county's first rural electrification school will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Shiloh school building, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

Designed to acquaint farm residents with the use of electricity in the home, the courses will be in charge of I. P. Blauser, extension specialist from Ohio State university. No charge will be made for the instruction, Ganyard said.

The course will deal with the principles of electricity, wiring problems and uses of electricity in the home. Classes will be held for the next three Thursday nights, ending Dec. 23.

Ganyard said the school will be held at Shiloh because a number of farm homes in the northern part of the county will soon be equipped for electric current with the completion of power line extensions in that area.

GET A NUMBER, WORKERS URGED

Security Official Calls Attention to Provisions of Act.

Persons who expect to be employed during the holiday season were urged today by Robert G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield district Social Security office to obtain their account numbers at once.

Social Security numbers are available at the district office in the Farmers bank building and at post offices in the various counties included in the Mansfield district. They are Richland, Ashland, Marion, Morrow, Wyandot, and Crawford.

"Make your number known to each and every employer for whom you have worked this year," Mish said. "Keep your account card, as your employer cannot make a report that will assure a correct record of your wages without it."

AMERICA RATED LOW IN MUSIC

Werrenrath of Grand Opera Fame Says Woman Composer Inferior to Man.

ST. LOUIS—(U.P.)—The woman composer is inferior to the man, according to Reinald Werrenrath, 54-year-old former grand opera singer.

"I'm forced to say that I've never run across a song written by a woman which compares with the best men have written," Werrenrath said in a lecture on the American song here.

"I wonder why this should be since women from Emma Eames to Rosa Ponselle have far transcended men as opera singers," he continued.

An article Werrenrath wrote for the Encyclopedia Britannica makes him an authority on the subject.

"America, judged by old world standards, has produced few fine songs," he asserted, "and very few indigenous ones.

"If I were put on the spot to name the best American composition—not song—of the last twenty years, I'd say George Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue'."

The former singer pointed out that America hadn't had a peasant class to hand folk songs down through the years. He said that a few themes had been stolen from the Indians.

"In Mother England" lie the roots of the American song, according to Werrenrath. He said the first American song writer was Francis Hopkinson, born in 1737 and a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

MIX SEASONS

Easter Lilies Bloom, Beans Flower in Washington.

BATTLE GROUND, Wash. — (INS)—A sudden burst of blooms on flowers and plants here this month sent residents on a hurried check of calendars to see if they had their seasons mixed. Easter lilies were reported in full bloom at two homes, while beans, raspberries and early cabbage were in flower at others.

GIVEN GOOD HEALTH BY THE NEW WORLD'S TONIC

Nervous Indigestion and Kidney Disorder Had Made Her Life Miserable

World's Tonic Amazing After All Else Failed to Help Her

"I never had any medicine before that could compare with World's Tonic," said Mrs. John Reed, of 206 E. Main St., Newark, Ohio.

"For years stomach troubles had made me miserable. Gas formed, bloated, and I had no appetite. I forced everything I ate; and what little I did eat had no taste to it. In bed at times and unable to do my work. I often had attacks of nervous indigestion that made me hysterical; my eyes would water. I had been badly constipated for so long, my system was clogged with poisons and dizzy spells and bilious attacks nearly wrecked me. Then to make matters worse, my kidneys became disordered and lumbago nearly crippled me until I could not sleep at times. I tried different kinds of medicines and medical authorities but always obtained the same result—NONE—until I began this new World's Tonic. It was one medicine that was different.

"Word's Tonic helped to clean my system of poisons until today I am feeling like a new person," she continued. "My stomach is fine, appetite good, sleep good and seldom have any gas or bloating of any kind. My kidneys and bowels are helped now, fine in every way. I never saw or heard tell of any medicine that could act as this new World's Tonic—it does the work of many medicines and does it well."

World's Tonic is a modern up-to-date medicine, as it comes from the various parts of the world where we or most of our ancestors originally came from.

600 GET TAGS

Rooky Patrolmen Do Big Job On First Day of Duty.

BOSTON, Mass. — (INS) — At least 600 automobile drivers learned about Boston's special detail of rooky patrolmen in a discomforting manner. On their first day of duty the new officers were handed tags and told to go to work on any automobile parked illegally. As a result more than 600 automobiles were tagged in the first day.

FILES REPORT

Kelley Says City Has Cash Balance of $119,000.

City Auditor Paul Kelley filed his monthly report with city council last night showing that the city has a cash balance of $119,568.08, approximately $31,000 less than the balance on hand Nov. 1.

The total includes $26,039.40 in the general fund, $21,979.63 in the waterworks fund, $7,178.01 in the garbage fund, $2,818.86 in the sanitary sewer fund, $61,-552.13 in the special fund.

Kelley said that the city had received final installment of $484.54 in the state-wide distribution of the auto registration fees.

MODERN METHODS OF TEACHING HELP TO POPULARIZE LATIN

CHICAGO —(INS)— "Latin is a dead language, as dead as can be.

"It killed the ancient Romans and it's slowly killing me!"

Many a schoolboy has chanted this ancient doggerel, and Prof. Berthold L. Ullman of the University of Chicago, a Latin teacher himself, is inclined to agree.

But the professor points out, improved teaching will go far in removing the curse of Latin from high school pupils.

"Old models of Latin teaching are still in some curricula," he pointed out, "just as old models of automobiles are seen on the roads. Neither Latin or the automobile industry can be judge by such standards."

Modern pedagogical methods stress two things in teaching the language—an emphasis on its value in acquiring good English and its aid in studying social science.

"Some think a good knowledge of English vocabulary and usage can be acquired by a study of English alone," he said. "It can, of course, but Latin can be of great assistance because the difficult English words which the high school student meets for the first time are overwhelmingly of Latin origin.

"Then, by learning how the Romans thought and lived and solved their problems the pupil learns to understand the many allusions to antiquity he meets constantly as well as gaining a sense of values with which to meet problems of our own day."

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or have poorly—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, sour, pain of sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. So take those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach acids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Bell-ans is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion. Bell symptoms. (c) Bell & Co.

AERIAL PHOTOS MADE OF FARMS

Farmers In Western States to Have Bird's Eye View of Their Properties.

SAN FRANCISCO — (U.P.) — Farmers in 10 western states soon may have accurate "bird's-eye" view, aerial maps of their own lands taken from a three-mile height by photographers under a crop conservation program of the AAA.

Specially-constructed planes, each equipped with a camera for aerial photographic surveys and oxygen tanks and special clothing for flying in high altitudes, are being used, the regional office of the administration said.

A total of more than 300,000 square miles of farm lands will be mapped in 10 western states under the AAA conversation program. Surveys covering approximately 140,000 square miles already are completed, it was announced.

In mapping an area, the survey plans travel north and south at about 100 miles an hour, flying in straight lines 100 miles long and three miles apart. In this manner the entire area to be surveyed is systematically photographed and the resultant pictures are put together to form a complete view of the entire area.

The films in the aerial cameras which hold approximately 100 exposures, are developed in special laboratories and enlargements made to a scale of 660 feet of earth to one inch.

COMMISSARY RIVALING THOSE IN ARMY SET UP BY STEEL WORKERS

A commissary department which would do credit to a small army has been set up at Delano lodge hall, 394 Bowman street, with relief orders being issued daily to Empire Sheet and Tin Plate workers company who are receiving part-time employment.

W. F. Bell, chairman of the Delano relief committee, said that an arrangement had been made by the lodge and the county relief office whereby the lodge will care for men employed part time, with the relief office taking 200 families that have no employment at all.

Forty-nine families applied for food yesterday, according to Marvin Adams who acts as "mess sergeant." They were issued supplies for a week, including approximately 29 items. Stores of supplies are kept at Delano headquarters, including canned food, bacon, flour, pancake flour, syrup, lard, canned milk, cornmeal and other items.

Members of Delano lodge are canvassing the city, soliciting funds and supplies, and food is being purchased at wholesale prices. Miss Lenora M. Mills, dietician of the Madison township schools is assisting in determining the kind and amount of food required by various sized families.

The lodge is adding to its general fund by giving dances twice weekly on Wednesday and Saturday nights, and bingo parties on Friday nights. Admission to these may be either in cash or canned food, Bell said.

Officials said that they plan to issue supplementary food supplies to about 100 families a week, and that supplies for Christmas baskets would be purchased with funds from the Employes Civic fund of the Empire Steel and contributions from individuals.

COUNTY'S FIRST RABBIT FEVER CASE REPORTED

Hunter's Illness Diagnosed as Tularemia; Second Case Under Surveillance.

Tularemia or rabbit fever today confined Carl Beer, R. D. 4, Mansfield to his home while health authorities reported that they had at least one other case under surveillance.

Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner said that clinical findings and blood tests reported by the state board of health had diagnosed the case as rabbit fever.

Issues Warning.

The case is the first of its kind to be reported in Richland county this year, Dr. Rehder said the disease was contracted by Beer while cleaning rabbits.

As a precaution against the infection, the commissioner warned hunters against cleaning rabbits with their bare hands.

"Always wear rubber gloves," he said. "Always cook the meat thoroughly and never take home an animal that looks or acts sickly."

He said that at least one per cent of the rabbits in the field were infected and that the hunter should not take a rabbit that can be run down and killed with a club.

Simpler Tax Forms.

THE commissioner of internal revenue, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, has announced an important change in social security tax collection methods. Beginning Jan. 1, payroll tax returns and payments on the old-age retirement benefit section of the law will be required quarterly instead of monthly.

"The purpose of the change," explains Secretary Morgenthau, "is simplification of the tax collection system in the interest of both taxpayer and government. The change will provide a form of record keeping far less burdensome to employers. At the same time, the government's record-keeping will be made much more simple and efficient by the elimination of cross-checking and going back to the taxpayer to reconcile differences."

This is a wise change. The needless amount of bookkeeping, form-filling and petty detail in connection with this special tax have caused annoyance and extra expense to everyone concerned. It is well that the simplification has come so soon.

Do Schools Teach How to Read?

FAIR consideration of the public school system, as expensively operated in the United States, requires that its weaknesses, as well as its good points, be recognized.

Dr. Stella Center, member of the board of examiners of New York city schools, says that many thousands of college students do not know how to read—and that's the reason they fail, she contends.

It was told at a recent session of the National Council of Teachers of English that only 40 per cent of pupils entering high school were able to read well enough to benefit from the teaching.

At a college conference in Atlantic City not long ago it was reported that high school students were finding Stevenson's "Treasure Island" too difficult and that this story would have to be re-written in simpler style. It will be remembered that this story was originally written for children.

When it is considered that ability to read understandingly is essential in attaining any kind of worth-while education, the seriousness of such a situation cannot be overestimated.

It is possible that in the decadence of the "little red school house," and in the trend toward superstructural frills in education, the importance of a substantial foundation may have been overlooked.

Fortunately such a condition does not exist in Ohio schools and colleges—or does it?

Considering Trailer Travel.

PREDICTION that within ten years a third of the people of the United States will be living in trailers has all the appearance of being wild exaggeration.

Trailer travel, if it may be fairly judged by the recital of experiences by Miss Katherine Hartman, Mansfield young woman, is one of those things best taken in a spirit of fun and adventure, over a brief period, rather than being adopted as a year-round mode of living.

The gypsy instinct, inherited from remote ancestry by many people, requires an occasional outlet even in these modern times. This is attained in various ways by different people—a hunting or fishing trip, a 'round the world voyage, a motor tour, or whatever individual inclination may prefer.

Into such a scheme of living, the trailer enters nicely in providing temporary escape from routine—for even unforeseen discomforts supply an element of entertainment and variety.

Except for those in whom the gypsy predominates, however, there is little likelihood that living in a trailer and going about from one place to another throughout the years, will have the appeal of a reasonably permanent and considerably more commodious place of habitation.

Judged by what has been written and said by persons who have indulged in trailer travel, it would be pleasant to go on a trailer trip—but even pleasanter to get back home.

Blowing Democracy's Horn.

ONE of the privileges of the citizen of this free country is the right to kick about his government, to criticise every officeholder, to condemn laws and work openly and vigorously to get them changed. It is a privilege that many Americans exercise freely a large part of the time.

It might naturally follow from this—though it doesn't—that it is a citizen's duty to distribute praise and appreciation now and then, too. If free criticism is a safety valve for democracy, free praise may be a bulwark against those alien isms which sneer at democracy and seek to supplant it.

Americans these days can hardly point out too often or too enthusiastically the blessings that exist here—freedom, opportunity, social consciousness, a good standard of living, education. They may grant that there is corruption in politics and government, and work to weed it out, but they should recognize that there is much honest public service, much progress in good government, and much fine co-operation and tolerance.

Point it out! Let the dictators know that we are already aware of all the faults they might name, but we gladly balance against them liberty and happiness of which they know nothing at all.

Missouri is credited with this new definition of tact: "Making your company feel at home when you wish they were."

As long as China is satisfied to consider it an "undeclared war," why doesn't that serve the purpose?

In any event, there is no indication of the Indians organizing to take the country back.

Some folks object to dogs in cities, while others contend the country is going to them.

PUTTING OUT THE CAT

Brazil Forces U. S. Writer Out of Argentina

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON— When dictatorially-governed Brazil becomes so dominant in South America that a North American news correspondent is ordered out of the Argentine Republic because Brazil disapproves of him the Latin American Fascist trend begins to appear so obvious that one would think Uncle Sam really must start to do some worrying concerning it.

Recent dispatches relate that such an expulsion decree had been issued in the case of John W. White, chief South American representative of the New York Times, with headquarters in Buenos Aires, the Argentine capital.

It was not, it seems, that the Argentine authorities had any particular fault to find with him, so far as they themselves were concerned. But his news reports appearing in the United States, were giving so much offense to the Rio de Janeiro (Brazil) dictatorship that Brazilian President Vargas told Argentina he would consider it "unfriendly" if the latter country continued to "harbor" him. Evidently Argentina preferred not to be so considered.

WHY THE CHANGE?

This is rather peculiar. Traditionally official relations between the Argentines and Brazilians have been, not exactly unfriendly, but not overly cordial. Only as lately as a few months ago, when there was talk of the lease of half a dozen small obsolete Yankee warships to Brazil, Argentina resented the suggestion hotly.

Why so sudden a change in the Argentine attitude?

It is nice to think of pleasanter terms between these two big Latin American countries, but not so nice to think of it as at the expense of an honest North American news correspondent.

AN IMPARTIAL OBSERVER

I know John White very well. I believe him to be the best North American newspaperman south of Key West in this hemisphere.

He has lived below the equator for 30 years. Many journalists, long away from home, lose touch with sentiment in the land of their origin. John White, somehow, remained a North American. At the same time, he has soaked up Latin American feeling. He speaks Spanish and Portuguese like a native. He has a Latin American wife and family. In short, he is a South American—and yet a North American.

And "on the level?" That is the "trouble." He tells the truth as he sees it.

As Bobby Burns remarked:

"Here's health to him that would read.
Here's health to him that would write.
There's none ever feared that the truth should be heard.
Save them that the truth would indict."

John's truth (indictments) causes the Latin American dictatorships to complain.

HIS ORIGIN

John originated and started his news career in Missouri.

In the course of time he landed in the consular service in Buenos Aires (Argentina). He had been a newspaperman previously, and, out of a vice consulate, he re-graduated into the newspaper business, as correspondent for the Associated Press. The A. P wanted to transfer him to Spain. He would not go, having become wedded to the Argentine. The A. P. insisted; so he switched to the New York Times.

It was the A. P.'s loss, I think.

ONCE PREVIOUSLY

The Argentine is a democratic country basically, but it has occasional dictatorial spasms.

It has one a few years ago, during which I understand that John had to transfer his base of operations from Buenos Aires (Argentina) to Montevideo (Uruguay). It is, in effect, a Buenos Aires suburb, a short night's steaming across the Rio de la Plata from the bigger city.

But "B. A." and "Monty" are in different countries.

You can be "canned out" of "B. A." and yet be as independent as you please in "Monty."

SPEAKING OF URUGUAY

I suppose that, again "fired" from Buenos Aires, John will return to Montevideo, and continue to express himself as freely as before.

However, there is this to be taken into account:

Uruguay, while consistently a very liberal republic, is an extremely small pewee, pinched in between powerful Argentina and still more powerful Brazil. Will it have the nerve to defy its formidable neighbors?

Maybe. Uruguay is a "sassy" little country.

I hope so.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND—

Doctor Gives Nosebleed Causes.

"EPISTAXIS" sounds like the name of some horrible disease. In reality, it means nothing more than nosebleed. This common complaint is the cause of personal embarrassment and often of fear.

Some persons are much more likely to have it than others. There are many causes for nosebleed. Usually it results from a definite nasal disturbance. If the attacks are frequent, in order to stop them it is necessary to determine the exact cause.

Nasal polyps are a common cause. In children, nosebleed is usually due to thickening and congestion of the lining of the nose or it may result from a tiny ulcer, a tear or infection of the delicate membrane within the nose. Bleeding following a blow or fall on the nose is self-explanatory.

Bear in mind that nosebleed is sometimes a symptom in certain constitutional disorders and other serious ailments. Occasionally it may come on spontaneously, without any apparent cause. Frequent nosebleeds, especially in adults, should not be neglected. Nature's warnings must never be overlooked.

Perhaps Fortunate.

Persons who suffer from high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries frequently have nosebleeds. Perhaps this is fortunate, like the blowing off of steam through a safety valve; the loss of blood prevents the rupture of a blood vessel elsewhere in the body. It may remove the pressure upon some blood vessel in the brain and prevent a stroke.

As a rule, nosebleed can easily be controlled. The first essential is to remain cool and collected. Bear in mind that excitement is stimulating to the heart and promotes more bleeding.

Insert a wad of cotton in the nostril and allow it to remain for at least an hour until a firm clot has formed. The application of cold water or ice to the nose and face often stops the bleeding. If the blood continues to drip into the throat despite the cotton plug, remove the packing and insert a fresh one.

If the bleeding persists in spite of all of these measures, it is best to send for a doctor. In fact, if the bleeding is profuse and a great deal of blood escapes, it is best to call a physician at once.

Chewing Gum's Conquest.

Can you remember when you held your geography before your face that your teacher might not discover that you were chewing gum? Little did you think then that gum chewing some day would be recognized as proper and beneficial by one of the great educational institutions of the country.

Co-eds of Marquette university recently discussed gum. To chew or not to chew was not the question. It was propriety of time and place for chewing. They agreed that gum affords relief from nerve tensions while studying for exams and watching athletic contests.

Mabel Mannix, dean of women, acknowledged that gum chewing has become a recognized American institution. Resistance on the part of educators, she said, is futile; they should teach young people to chew properly.—Detroit News.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Lack of Confidence on Another Front.

LACK of confidence is spreading among the people "back home." It is not the "lack of confidence" discussed in financial circles. It is the reverse.

An observer going among the people finds that, as in ratio President Roosevelt and congress give big business more reason for "confidence" the less confidence people have.

That feeling is marked. President Roosevelt has lost ground the last few weeks—if this condition be general.

CAUSE OF APPREHENSION

Apprehension is gaining ground largely because thousands of people are back where they were with no fundamental change. But, worse than that, monopolies seem to have gained to such an extent that small business has difficulty existing. And the government, having created an inflation to "tide us over" till fundamental readjustments were made, now withdraws the inflation without having made the readjustments.

It is thus with anger—from which the Republican opposition will not benefit—that many persons (probably the majority) see an evident inclination on the part of the president to "compromise" with the financial monopolies in order "to get the wheels going" again. (At least, that is the way the average man on street and farm sees it. The interviewer is struck by the unanimity of this view among the mass of voters.)

The groups opposed to this—and they seem to be large—believe that their own interests and rights are being vitiated. And that the monopolies themselves may collapse in a few years because they are sucking up all the purchasing power of the nation instead of permitting it to be spread out widely.

AN EXAMPLE

An example is given in regard to freight and passenger rates.

The railroads are being given increases.

A freight rate increase is a virtual tax increase.

A passenger rate increase is an inconvenience.

A freight rate increase (as pointed out by no less a financial organ than the Wall Street Journal) raises the cost of living—when by all odds the cost of living ought to be going down, for the sake of business as well as humanity.

A passenger rate increase will drive people from the railroads—people wooed back a year or two ago by a rate decrease. The loss will be the railroads'.

And, if the freight rate increase added to other higher costs, dries up business, the railroads will be worse off than before.

BUT WHAT?

"But what then?" the average citizen as well as the railroad manager may ask.

Few will doubt that the railroads could operate with a profit at low rates (which would bring business) if their capitalized and otherwise inflated debt were not so heavy.

To wipe out the overcapitalized debts would mean wiping out individuals and institutions.

Yet the structure cannot be bolstered up much longer. It is too rotten.

Eventually, of course, the railroads and other monopolies will be tossed overboard by the insurance companies and banks—and the government will have to "absorb" them with the money of taxpayers. It has been that way in other countries. The United States and England are among the last to have private railroads.

The financial monopolies retain industrial monopolies only so long as their securities can be sold with a profit or can be manipulated. (The testimony in the senate hearings of the Van Swearingen rail empire brings this out vividly.)

ANOTHER INVESTIGATION?

Incidentally, an effort is being made in Washington now to have an investigation of the management of insurance companies. The last important investigation was made by Charles Evans Hughes, as special investigator in New York state, some 33 years ago. The people in Washington pressing for an investigation say Chief Justice Hughes "merely scratched the surface."

Since then the insurance companies have used pressure to prevent investigations, the Washington folk say.

A small group of insurance executives control 24 billion dollars' worth of the people's savings. This money can be used as they see fit. That is the allegation.

The spark touching off the insurance situation came at a hearing last month of the senate railroad committee. The insurance companies own millions of dollars' worth of railroad securities—many of them in defunct railroads.

A writer in The New Republic sums up a part of that testimony:

"The senate committee . . . received evidence that J. P. Morgan and Company, bankers who had sold great quantities of securities to big life insurance companies and were at the time leaders in the investment banking business, had offered blocks of stock to various directors of a number of (insurance) companies at about $15 a share below the market price, and the directors had accepted the offer."

The people in Washington seeking an investigation of insurance companies ask whether it is not dangerous to the safety of the republic to permit such huge organizations, with wealth greater than the majority of nations, to be manipulated by a few. They ask, further, whether such monopolies should not be absorbed by the government—as social security is—as a purely governmental function.

This is another one of the questions engendered by the age, and which indicate that future elections will not be fought out on strictly party lines.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON—

Your First Job Is YOURSELF.

ALWAYS doing things for other people, aren't you? Giving up your own plans, sacrificing your own interests.

And what thanks do you get? Notta thank! To the contrary, the more you do, the more they expect, and the less they appreciate your efforts.

Look how they treat you . . . whining, complaining, treating you like a worm.

Well, what do you expect? You asked for it . . . you started it. If you don't respect your own rights, why should anyone else? Yes, I know—this idea of being everybody's door mat has a lot of sentimental backing. But actually, it's vicious hokum. And if you ever expect to do anything with your life, you'll have to learn one law and stick by it. Meaning this—

YOUR FIRST DUTY IS TO YOUR SELF.

You weren't created to serve somebody else, or follow somebody else's pattern, no matter how near and dear that somebody else may be . . . you were created to BE YOURSELF AND DEVELOP YOUR OWN PATTERN.

Does that sound ruthlessly selfish? 'Tisn't. It's the fundamental law of all life. Every living thing is born with a unique pattern and purpose. Pine trees are meant to be pines . . . turnips are meant to be turnips . . . hawks are meant to be hawks. And it's disastrous to meddle with that plan.

What happens when men try to cross-breed animals or plants which have different natures? STERILITY happens. Life stops going on. The "mongrels" and "hybrids," which are the result of such experiments, cannot reproduce their kind. Nature has rebelled. Indeed, the very word "hybrid" comes from a Greek term which means "an insult or outrage on nature."

What's true for a tree or a turnip is even more tragically true for a man. Each man is as different from all other men as an oak is different from a pine, or a humming bird from a hawk. That difference—that individuality—is the most important and sacred thing he has. It is why he is here. And the greatest crime he can commit is to let others destroy his pattern and demolish his purpose to suit their own ends.

You've seen it happen. Children who remained unmarried to suit selfish parents—wives meekly submitting to the abuse of worthless husbands . . . husbands permitting themselves to be degraded by worthless wives. You've heard endless eulogy of such "noble sacrifices." And there's no doubt that such martyrs are sincere . . . honestly believe they're acting righteously.

But did you ever see one of them who was happy . . . who felt that spiritual pride which should follow fine achievements? No you didn't—and you never will.

For such sacrifices aren't noble. They are a violation of Life's plan . . . a shameful sell-out. And Life takes revenge. The people who are guilty of such betrayal despise themselves and are despised. They're frustrated and secretly furious—for they've lost their pattern, become contemptible push-arounds.

Kindness, helpfulness, unselfish love and loyal service—these are our obvious duties as decent human beings. But they are all meaningless unless you are first LOYAL TO YOURSELF.

"But how far should we go in loyalty to ourselves? Where does self protection end and selfishness begin?"

That's hard to tell, and each of us must make his own ruling. But our personal reactions are a fairly reliable test. How is your service to others affecting you? Are you leading a fuller, happier life because of it? Do you feel larger spiritually, more mature mentally? Are you eager . . . proud . . . serene in your own depths? If you're doing right by yourself as well as the other fellow, that should be the result.

Or do you feel cheated, embittered, sorry for yourself? Then you can be pretty sure that you're short-changing Exhibit A—

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

IN THE hurrah of glorified movie productions, the figures often most responsible for the achievements are little known outside the studio conference rooms. There is, for instance, the story editor who takes the first big step in reaching the grand finale.

O. O. McIntyre

For example: Jacob Wilk, story chief of a major company, was first to see the possibilities of the smashing Zola and Pasteur biographical type of film. He was the pioneer upon insistence that such delineations should not swerve one iota from the actual historical account.

The story editor lives and works in either Hollywood or New York. He must be an omniverous reader and know that a "Gone With the Wind" or an "Anthony Adverse" will be a best seller almost as soon as the publishers. He must also know literary folk and how to approach them.

Julian Johnson, now retired, was, I believe, first of the story editors to make a conspicuous success, although he was little known outside literary circles. The story editor may make $100,000 a year, and several are so important they are big stockholders in their outfits.

Frank Case has received his advance check against writing his memoirs of the Algonquin, over which he has presided so long. Thus New York's literati will welcome a book to which it has long looked forward. Case, in becoming a full fledged author under his own name, emerges from an anonymity behind which he has long hidden. Under various pseudonyms he has contributed to newspaper columns and magazines and his daughter, Margaret Case Harriman, has become one of the leading magazine article writers of her day.

The Algonquin garnered a major share of its fame because its dining room was the setting for the Round Table, reputedly a group of the brighter writing boys who were simply too perfectly too-too with their cynicisms for the newest Dale Carnegie and who were not adverse to back-scratching and log rolling. Case, with a shrewd eye for human magnets to celebrity, allowed the legend to expand. As a matter of fact, the Round Table occasionally had Woollcott, Benchley and Kaufman, but mostly the chairs were occupied by theatrical press agents who somehow imagined this proximity gave them literary halo. Many writers have made the Algonquin a port of call—Rex Beach, Edna Ferber, Sinclair Lewis, Irvin Cobb and such—but its real and interesting history is entwined chiefly with the stage. The stage of John Drew, Ethel Barrymore, Constance Collier, Raymond Hitchcock and so many more of that ilk who made it their New York Home.

Now and then it is fun to journey to Yorkville's bilious-fronted row of beer gardens on East 86th street. Especially at Maxl's, the Bavarian bierstubl. A number, like Maxl's, have recaptured the hoppy spirit and smell of Cincinnati's Over the Rhine. Waiters and orchestras are in Alpine array—short leather pants and Homburgs with feathers in the bands. And how they tootle the revered German waltzes, the leader jockeying the crowd into caroling the Schnitzelbaum song with all stops out. Among the waiters is always a yodeler to give a touch of realism. The best noodle soup in town is here. None beats the German soup makers. Then the Yorkville piece de resistance—pig knuckles with sauer kraut. Kraut that has that salty tang known to epicures as the Teuton touch." And how those fat bull fiddlers can vroomp, vroompf, vroompf so that one begins to realize there is something to the big violin after all.

Soda elegance: The old 5-cent soda attains the pinnacle of pomp in a place to be opened in the fashionable 60's spang off Park avenue next spring. An old and decaying mansion is to be razed and on the site will be reared a white marble mosque—suggesting the Taj Mahal. The soda salon will be two stories high. The first will be given over entirely to an enormous soda fountain with tables and the soda will be tariffed 10 cents a glass with some especially ta-da-dah sundaes running as high as 60 cents. The second floor will feature a de luxe home dinner to be served at $.4 week days and $5 Sundays.

From a news item: "This is the second pair of twins born to the mother who was formerly a telephone operator."

Cutting a Birthday Cake.

What is more lovely than a cake
Baked for a birthday? Bright,
With candles set in gay array?
Is there a fairer sight?

Is there a merrier moment than
That one, when glowing, it
Is set before the birthday child
With every taper lit?

Almost too beautiful to cut,
A part of fairyland
It seems, with hope ascending and
Each wish at its command.

It's hard to cut a birthday cake,
But when at last you do,
Be sure to have the birthday child
Ensure the wish come true.

By blowing out with one great puff
Each shining golden light;
That is the proper way to do
The final trusted rite.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

CHAPTER I.

Twenty years ago a company of young actors and actresses stopped in the small town of Harriston for a week. On Saturday night after the last performance the little company disbanded for lack of funds and trains that left after midnight took them in many directions.

Early Sunday morning a maid, coming in to clean the room occupied by the leading lady, found a baby not more than six months old, hungry and crying.

The next day all Harriston knew that the young actress had deserted her child. The police were notified and the mother was sought while the child was placed in an institution. But the young mother was never located and not long afterward the little girl was adopted by a woman who had never had a child and thereafter she was known as Karen Mallare.

• • •

"So you are going to New York to go on the stage," Jerry Forbes said.

It was the first Sunday in June and Karen and Jerry had driven to the lake, parked the car, and were sitting on a grassy knoll beneath a tall spreading tree.

A slim girl with thick black hair center-parted, she wore a brown skirt and a short tan jacket. A vivid, vital, beautiful girl, men thought, and always men noticed her. There was something about her candid, clear blue eyes, her natural grace and brilliant smile that made men notice, and women more than a little envious.

"Yes," Karen said. "I'm going to New York to go on the stage. There's nothing to keep me here—now."

The young man, brown-haired, brown-eyed, turned to her and smiled hopefully.

"Can't I keep you here? Stay here and marry me, Karen. That's what I've wanted since the first time I saw you last winter at Betty's party. That's one night I'll never forget."

She knew, of course. She had known for months, though she had never let him say it. He had come to Harriston last winter to work in his uncle's bank. She had heard more than one person remark, "Jerry Forbes will get all the old man's money and he'll be president of the bank some day. He's the only male relative the old man has." Yet of all the girls in Harriston, girls with money, girls who had been away to college, he had singled out Karen after that night at Betty's.

Turning her dark head, she looked at him kindly. She did not want to hurt him. But she did not love him. Wasn't love something magical that happened to you suddenly and completely?

He spared her by smiling again and saying, "I know. You're not in love with me. That's it, isn't it?"

She nodded. Then, sitting up straight, she leaned her head against the old tree and looked thoughtfully over the lake.

"Hasn't anybody ever told you about me, Jerry? Hasn't anybody ever told you that my mother abandoned me when I was about six months old? So, you see, I don't know who I am. I'm not even sure how old I am. I—I don't think your uncle would want you to marry a girl who doesn't know who she is."

Looking down at her, his eyes loved her.

"You're just trying to let me down easily. I don't care about that!"

Yes, he had heard. That was one of the first things he had heard when he came to live in his uncle's house. He knew the story of Karen's life until now. He knew that her foster-parents, Hetty and John Mallare, had been in very modest circumstances but that they loved her as if she were their own child, had sacrificed to give her singing and dancing lessons, and had been touchingly proud of her. He knew that John Mallare died when Karen was in her last year at high school and that immediately after graduation she began to work in the dress department of Harriston's most exclusive little shop.

And he knew also that all her life she had wanted to be an actress; that in church plays and school plays people had recognized her ability. After graduation she had joined a group of amateurs who gave plays in the high school auditorium in winter. He had seen her and her portrayals had stirred him. Like mother, like daughter, he had often wondered?

Only two weeks ago Hetty Mallare had passed away, leaving Karen several hundred dollars. And Karen had moved from the second floor flat where she and Hetty lived after John's death and was now living in Mrs. Moore's boarding house.

"Yes, I heard," he said now. "But I never thought it up before. Several times I thought of it because I wondered why you didn't call Mrs Mallare 'mother'."

Aunt Hetty . . . Karen felt a twist in her heart.

"She wouldn't let me One night she told me that there was only one woman in the world who deserved to be called that by me. She said that the woman, my mother, had left a big piece of her heart here in Harriston and that whoever she was and wherever she was, she hadn't been a happy woman since. Aunt Hetty had a big heart and a big mind, Jerry. She knew I wanted to be an actress. She understood. So," she looked at him steadily. "I quit my job yesterday and I'm leaving Tuesday. Cora Hillman, who worked in New York two years before she came back to marry Ted, wrote and found me a room."

Jerry frowned. "Karen, don't you—hate her? Your mother, I mean. Has she even been a real person to you? When did you know. . . ."

"I forget how old I was when Jimmy Akers shouted at me one day that my mother had left me on a doorstep. In tears I ran to Aunt Hetty and she told me about it. I'll never forget how angry she was. She was going to tell me about it but she was waiting for me to grow up a little more. She didn't want me to feel different from other children. But all through my childhood, whenever any of the children were angry with me, they'd remind me that my mother hadn't wanted me. It—it hurt. But I've gotton over that."

Karen was different from any girl in Harriston, he thought. Suddenly he remembered the first time he'd seen her. There had been a party and when he walked in, he saw her standing by the piano, wearing a simple blue dress, and singing a popular song. Later he learned that at parties she was always asked to sing.

Karen said in her rich contralto voice, "Since that day I've thought about my mother a lot." She smiled. "I've made up the wildest stories about her! But all I do is ask myself questions I can't answer—probably never will answer. Was she ill and frightened? Or was I a burden? You see, I don't know anything. I don't know if I hate her or not."

"New York is a big place," Jerry said. "But anything can happen there. It's a crossroad. You might find your mother some day. She might be one of the great lights on the stage today. It would be strange. . . ."

"I've thought of that, too. I've thought of everything. But she might be dead or a thousand miles away from New York." She shook her head. "No. I'll never find her and I'll never tell anybody there my story. And even if I came face to face with her, I'd never know. No woman is going to tell a secret like that."

The twilight was descending like a purple mantle The sky had become painted with new and brighter colors. The lake had darkened.

Shivering a little in the sudden breeze, she stood up. Jerry stood up and drew her to him gently.

"I wish you luck," he said, looking intently into her face. "I suppose the selfish thing is to hope you flop and spend all your money and come back to me But I don't wish that, Karen. But I wouldn't make such a bad husband, would I?"

"You'd make a fine husband" She meant that The girl would be fortunate who married him. She thought suddenly, "The girls who've been jealous of his attention to me will be glad when I leave. Jerry is the most eligible young man in Harriston and doesn't know it."

He asked, "But isn't love important to you, Karen? Or isn't love in your scheme of things?"

Again she remembered Aunt Hetty who had said one night, "Love is the most important thing in the world to a woman. Don't forget that And you have a capacity for love, Karen. You're not fickle. You don't play with fire the way a lot of girls do these days. You're honest I hope love is good to you, dear, because you'll be good and faithful to it." How had Aunt Hetty, born and raised in Harriston and married to a boy she adored at seventeen, known so much?"

She laid her hand on Jerry's shoulder "It's the most important thing in the world I musn't miss it If I have everything else and miss that, I'll have nothing." Aunt Hetty had also said, "Some day Karen, you will meet a man you will love more than you love your own life."

"One more thing," Jerry said as she drew away, "New York isn't so far away. I'll drive up to see you. And if you don't . . ."

"But I mustn't fail!" Karen said. "I mustn't!" She laughed suddenly. "We'd better go. You have to be the first at the table at Mrs. Moore's or you get left!"

On Tuesday at noon, with two traveling bags beside her, she stood on the station platform with Jerry beside her. She was wearing a gray tailored suit, small, high-heeled black pumps, and a small black hat.

For quite some time she had not been able to say anything, fearing that if she spoke her voice would break. Was she doing the "right" thing? Or was the "right" thing smothering her dreams and telling Jerry she'd marry him? He offered security, and his name. It was already crowded with girls who had said, "I am going to be an actress." Many came but few succeeded. Fame was an elusive lady, granting few favors, promising nothing . . .

But she knew she could not smother her dreams. She had to pursue them'

Down the track she saw the smoke from the train curling upward.

Jerry took off his hat and looked down at her One corner of his mouth twitched. "Good luck," he said and tried to smile. "I'm here if you need me. And I'll be driving up to New York one of these week-ends . . ."

"Please do, Jerry. I know I'm going to be lonely. I don't know a soul." She stood on tiptoe and kissed his lips lightly. "Good-bye, Jerry. Thanks for—for many things."

• • •

On the train she did not look back at the tall youthful figure in gray She pressed her hand against her mouth to keep from crying. Her throat ached. Goodbye to Jerry, to Uncle John, to Aunt Hetty. One part of her life had come to an end, the Harriston part of it, but of it she had sweet memories and Aunt Hetty's wise advice to lean upon. From now on she would be a girl alone . . . If only you could see just a little way ahead of you! If only the future were not such a void! Her heart raced. Sitting up straight, she looked ahead and thought, "I won't be afraid. Aunt Hetty taught me never to be afraid in the dark."

New York . . . To fall in love . . . To be a great actress . . . Her dreams. And she was following them.

At seven o'clock that night Karen stepped off the train and followed a red-cap with her two heavy bags through the great station. So many people coming and going. Tipping the red-cap, she slid into a taxi.

The buildings reached optimistically toward the sky. Streets were thickly peopled. Already in the twilight the lights on Broadway were blinking and shining How remote Harriston seemed now, she thought.

Through correspondence, she had found a room occupied by a Mrs. Graham who was going to spend the summer in the country. Mrs. Graham was a friend of Cora Hillman The apartment house was on Fifty-seventh street and before long the cab stopped and several minutes later she was on the elevator.

Mrs Graham, tall, middle-aged, and gray-haired, opened the door.

"Oh, Miss Mallare! Come in"

The room was small. The mahogany dresser and the desk before the window were old and cheap. But a new chintz cover on the studio couch and new chintz curtains at the one window added cheer.

CITY GOES TO COURT TO GAIN TITLE TO FARM

Council Instructs Solicitor to Act; Told Owner Asks More Than Option Price.

The city of Mansfield today started court proceedings to gain specific preference on an option it holds on 10 acres of land owned by Linda and Carl Brumenshenkel, and on which the city has drilled a well for its water supply. The farm is southwest of the city.

City council last night authorized City Solicitor Herbert Schettler to take the action. The city held an option giving it the right to buy the land for $2,000

City officials said they have attempted since last June to close the transaction, entered into by Mayor Earl A. McFarland and Murray D. Shaffer, then service-safety director, on Sept. 29, 1936. The option was to be exercised within one year.

They contend they have complied with the terms of the option by drilling the well which is now producing approximately 1.6 million gallons of water daily.

Asks Higher Price.

The officers added that they are willing to settle the deal and have made numerous attempts toward settlement, but hat Brumenshenkel now asks a greater price than the amount stipulated in the contract.

The officials said they had a letter on file acknowledging the exercising of the agreement and that $20 had been paid Brumenshenkel to have the necessary appraisal of the property made.

The Federal Land bank, Louisville, Ky., holds both first and second mortgages on the entire farm and will not release the 10 acres to the city until the owner has paid off the second mortgage and made a substantial payment on the first mortgage, more than Brumenshenkel would receive from the city for the purchase of the 10-acre plat.

However, officials said they had arranged a loan with a Mansfield loa company but that Brumenshenkel had refused it because of the interest rate.

Also pending before city council is a claim of $125 for crop damage due to construction of a water line through his property, which officials recommend be withheld until title to the property is received

SEE FARM BILL PASS THIS WEEK

Administration Leaders Point to Double Victory In Claim For Quick Passage.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Administration lieutenants, encouraged by test votes in house and senate, forecast today the long-debated crop control bill would win approval by both chambers this week.

Their optimism was caused by a double victory for the bill's supporters yesterday:

1. The house turned down, 80 to 59, a proposal to eliminate marketing quotas for cotton. Leaders predicted they could defeat a similar attempt to remove provisions for compulsory control of corn.

2. The senate defeated, 51 to 25, an amendment by Republican Leader McNary to limit the farm program's operation to three years.

Senate leaders said the greatest remaining danger would be a motion to send the bill back to committee. They declared, however, a count showed they could defeat it by a margin of 15 or 20 votes.

Foes of the bill disputed this figure. They said they had almost enough votes pledged to send back the measure, and then when the roll call came they might have enough.

Forecasts of a final vote this week also were challenged by some of the measure's critics, who noted the senate had reached only page 18 of the 97-page measure in consideration of committee amendments.

House leaders were in better shape for completing the legislation this week, although they had abandoned efforts to limit debate. They already had disposed tentatively of some of the major issues that still must be debated in the senate.

Even should leaders succeed in passing the farm bills in both house and senate this week, they would have no assurance of getting the legislation to the White House this session. Many fundamental differences will have to be compromised between the house and senate versions.

The wage-hour bill will come up in the house next Monday, but its chances for final action were considered even slighter, because by the time a vote is taken only a week of the session will be left.

Southern senators expressed opposition to the proposal of the house labor committee for putting administration of the measure under the labor department. If the house should agree with its committee, there would be an argument with the senate, which voted to have an independent board of five members administer the law.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass.—(U.P.)—Mayor Bossy Gillis, smarting from his worst defeat in a city election, vowed today to make a "healthy comeback."

His try for a fourth mayoralty term yesterday was thwarted by former City Solicitor James F Carens, who polled 4,336 votes to Bossy's 2,411. Bossy—officially Andrew J.—failed to carry a single ward.

Hoarse from a cold contracted during outdoor rallies, Bossy vehemently denied that the nearly 2-to-1 defeat removed him from the political picture.

SECRETARY'S 'TEMPERAMENTAL' SO TOMMY'S AFTER A NEW ONE

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(UP)—Tommy Manville, the connoisseur of blonds, is looking for a new secretary today because Dolly Goering, who used to take dictation sitting on his lap, has been "acting temperamental of late"

A bold-faced advertisement, covering almost half a page, appeared in this morning's newspapers. It read:

"Wanted: A secretary. Tommy Manville, P. O. Box 1002, New Rochelle, N. Y."

The asbestos heir resorted to full-page advertisements when he was looking for a lawyer to help him settle his marital difficulties with Mrs. Manville No. 4, blond Marcelle Edwards. She went to Reno, Nev., after Manville reportedly agreed to pay $250,000 for his freedom.

Miss Goering lasted two years at Bon Repos, Manville's 28-room estate. Manville said today:

"Dolly, the most famous secretary in the world up to now, has found out that Tommy Manville is not getting married again. . . .

"Tommy, for once in his life, appreciates his freedom to such an extent that any secretary, millionairess, social climber or girl friend cannot convince Tommy to pay $250,000 again for something people call romance.

"So consequently his office is without a secretary, and any new secretary must be sure she intends to be a secretary and is not applying to be Tommy's fifth wife."

Manville prefers blonds, but he didn't say that brunets or red-heads were taboo.

A meeting of the society's executive committee opened the sessions at 10 a. m. It was followed by a business conference at 10:30 a. m.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Two small Cleveland girls were convinced today that snow is good for more than sledding.

Frances Barber, 5, suffered bruises when a truck bumped her. Snow cushioned her fall.

SPEEDS MURDER PROBE

ELYRIA, O.—(AP)—A special grand jury investigation of the assault-slaying of 19-year-old Louise Hornbeck, of nearby Grafton, progressed today as the balance of 58 witnesses were heard.

Butler said the inquiry was expected to determine whether any of three youths in custody would be held in the attractive dentist assisant's death.

SELLS SEALS AT SCHOOLS, STORES

Smith Reports Brisk Sale of Christmas Health Stamps.

Christmas health seals may be purchased at any Mansfield book store, through the schools or at the health seal committee headquarters at 76 East Fourth street, George H. Smith, city chairman of the seal committee, announced today.

"School children are not selling stamps this year, but they can get the seals for purchasers from teachers at the schools," Smith said.

He reported brisk sales of the stamps which provide funds for the Richland county tuberculosis clinic. The county seals committee set the goal at approximately $4,000 to be attained by Christmas.

LAUD DU PONT'S PROPOSALS FOR JOB INCREASE

Industrialists and Lawmakers Praise Program to Provide Work For 3,000,000.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Lammot DuPont's industrial expansion program to create possibly 3,000,000 jobs won approval on the whole today from prominent figures in the nation who commented on the proposals the manufacturer made to attack unemployment.

The president of E. I. Dupont De Nemours and Company suggested the possibility of creating work for 3,000,000 by a planned industrial expansion financed to the extent of $25,000,000,000 by industry itself contingent upon full cooperation from the government by assurance it would give business a "fair opportunity."

This could be done, he told the National Association of Manufacturers yesterday, by a governmental pledge of tax rate stabilization, of "fair laboring conditions" over a long period, and of "legal rules" under which industry operates, subject only to "unmistakable public demand for amendment."

Unanimous Approval.

Industrial executives who voiced opinions after hearing the address were virtually unanimous in approving DuPont's analysis of the economic problem and a method of attack. Heads of large corporations, several congressional leaders, economists and a labor leader joined with those who heard it in praising the address. Some expressed complete approval, others in part. A banker was skeptical and labor's most prominet leaders, John L. Lewis and William Green, withheld comment.

In the halls of congress, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee said "DuPont's suggestions are to be praised."

One senator privately expressed some doubt as to the ability of one congress to pledge "stabilization" extending beyond its own life, and Rep. Martin (R-Mass.), assistant Republican leader, said "it is an interesting proposal but it is questionable whether anyone could make the guarantee he seeks."

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) said "DuPont has a fine plan. Let them (industry) go ahead with it. They don't need any governmnet help to do it."

The only labor leader represented in the comment—Thomas G. Gillers, Pittsburgh, first district president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers — said labor leaders would cooperate with "any kind of a sensible plan if they could feel sure men like DuPont would meet them half way," but said the industrial leader had proposed no detailed plan of financing the program he suggested.

YOUTH CONVICTED

LISBON—(U.P.)—John Borgwardt, 23, charged with the shotgun slaying of his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Cranston, 45, at her home near Westville, last Aug. 10, today had been convicted of second degree murder by a jury in Columbiana county common pleas court here. Judge W. F. Jones deferred sentence pending of a motion for a new trial.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

dents, fires and exposure as the result of the cold.

In Ohio, an unidentified man was frozen to death at Cincinnati when the mercury dropped to 11.3, lowest early December reading in 11 years. At Cleveland, 300 men and 60 trucks cleared snow and slush from the city's streets.

Despite drifts on some country roads, main arteries of travel were kept open, reports from County Engineer Howard C. Sword's office said.

The snowfall was general over the state but heavier in the southeastern counties where snow plows worked during the night to keep highways open, Col. Lynn Black, state highway patrol superintendent, reported.

Heavy snow and near zero readings were general throughout the midwest and northwest. The lowest was eight below zero in North Dakota.

Northern Indiana and southern Michigan dug out of snow drifts from 18 to 36 inches high. Buffalo, N. Y., traffic was paralyzed in the worst December snow storm since 1927. The city reported 11 inches of snow and a drop of 22 degrees in temperature during the night

In most sections of the country hit by the cold, the relief burden showed a marked increase as destitute families sought clothing and fuel.

A $50,000 municipal power plant at Paw Paw, Mich., toppled into a river when the melting of 30 inches of snow caused the stream to overflow and break a dam at the power station, Associated Press dispatches said.

CHIEF SUSPENDS OHIO EXAMINER

Auditor Removed Pending Inquiry Into Toledo Charges.

TOLEDO—(AP)—James A. Bolinger, of Fremont, examiner of the state securities commission assigned to northwestern Ohio, was suspended here today by Dan T. Moore, chief of the securities division, on information in connection with the Toledo Guaranty corporation case.

Moore said the suspension was made on information furnished him by a person formerly connected with the Guaranty corporation. He said he could not divulge the information except to say "it was so serious the department could not permit Bollinger to continue to serve the department until the information had been fully verified or discredited."

Turn Remy Puzzle Over to Council's Street Committee

The much discussed Remy avenue sidewalk problem was turned over to city council's street committee headed by Sixth Ward Councilman George Berg at last night's meeting of council.

Berg asked council what action it was going to take on the sidewalks that were left anywhere from 18 inches to three feet above the street when R. C. Darling, contractor, finished laying the new pavement to the grade on Remy avenue. The sidewalks were laid over a year ago by WPA, and city engineers set the stakes that established the grade.

Council President Claude M. Hunter said that since it was a street problem, he would refer the matter to the street committee, of which Berg is the chairman.

"If the street committee deems it necessary to lower the walks, let them have the necessary legislation prepared and present it to council for action," Hunter said.

George Kyle, chairman of the claims committee, made the suggestion that a petition first be received from the property owners to protect the city against any possible damage.

Berg said he could get the petition and that "the property owners will be only too glad to sign it."

DUFFY HOLDS 'BREAK' NEAR IN JURY PROBE

Capital Waits For Details of 'Something Big' Learned By Probing Body.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Observers awaited today disclosure of "something big" that happened in the special grand jury's probe of the state parole system.

Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy told newsmen, after Arch W. Naylor, one of the central figures in the investigation, had testified for the third time yesterday, that "we'll have something big for you in a day or two."

Col. Alfred Ballin, the jury foreman, also intimated the development was of great importance but neither he nor the attorney general would disclose its nature.

Causes Speculation.

Observers wondered whether the jury had indicted someone and if the development concerned indictment for perjury or irregularities in parole administration.

Duffy accused Naylor, friend of former Chairman Leland S. Dougan of the parole board, of "lying like a trooper" last week and said his agreement giving Naylor immunity in exchange for his testimony did not protect him from the filing of perjury charges.

Naylor was brought here from Zanesville yesterday and spent about 45 mintues on the stand after the jury had questioned Andrew and Rocco Marino, Youngstown brothers of Roy (Happy) Marino, who was shot to death last September, supposedly by gangsters.

Demand Immunity.

The Marino brothers also refused to testify unless granted immunity and were on the stand only a short time. Their testimony supposedly concerned commutation of Roy Marino's 20-year-sentence for bank robbery, during the administration of former Gov. George White, after he had served only 14 months.

Yesterday's other witnesses were Tom Sabrey, Columbus hotel manager; James T. Keenan, newspaper reported, and Tony LaFatch of Akron, serving 10 to 25 years in Ohio penitentiary for bank robbery.

The jury adjourned until 1 p. m. today, instead of 9:30 a. m., giving as a reason the attorney general's press of other business.

Yule Festivities At White House To Come In Twos

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Christmas festivities at the White House this year will come in twos—two family dinners, two parties for young people and two Christmas trees.

One of the dinners will be at the luncheon hour, when grandchildren of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt will attend. The other will be Christmas night for the grown-ups.

There will be a children's party Dec. 27. Little Sara Roosevelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, will share honors with her cousin, young "Bill" Roosevelt, son of Elliott Roosevelt by his first marriage.

On Dec. 30 the president and first lady will entertain about 40 young people at a dance for their youngest son, John, and his fiancess, Anne Clark of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., also will be present although they will spend Christmas day with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DuPont, near Wilmington, Del.

The first lady is going to help decorate four trees, one at New York City for the Women's Trade Union league, one at Hyde Park, N. Y., and the two in the White House.

OLD CAR RAILS TO BE REMOVED

Council Acts to Eliminate East Fourth Driving Hazard; Street to Be Repaved.

Believe it or not—the old street car rails, that make driving on East Fourth street a hazard, are going to be torn up and a new asphalt surface will be laid in their place.

City council last night authorized the work when it put the stamp of approval on two resolutions in quick succession.

An appropriation of $2,250 that had been made earlier in the year for the rental of a stone crusher, that was never used, was transferred to the street department fund to pay for the labor involved in taking up the old rails.

The second measure authorized the service-safety director to dispose of the old rails at a sum not less than $8 per ton. The funds received from the sale will be paid into the general fund.

Service-Safety Director Philip Wolfe told council that the rails would be taken out as far as possible. The old tracks and a guard rail extend from North Main street to Wayne street.

Wolfe said there were several persons who owed nearly $300 in water rent and that they were willing to "work it out." This he explained, would cut down part of the labor costs.

Wolfe said that had council authorized him to sell the rails a month ago he could have received $14 a ton ofr scrap steel. The best he could sell them for now was $8 a ton, he said, because of a slump in the scrap steel market.

'TAX BURDEN' ALARMING U. S. BUSINESS, DAVEY SAYS IN PLEA

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey, asserting business was alarmed by "too great a tax burden," left with Ohio congressmen today a plea to support a federal amendment permitting states to distribute unemployment insurance payments one year after starting collections.

Representative Mosier (D., Ohio) announced he would introduce a bill to amend the Social Security act to achieve this end. Mosier and Senator Bulkley (D., Ohio) agreed such an amendment could be passed by next month.

Davey, before returning to Ohio, explained at a meeting of Ohio congressmen his plan to permit insurance benefit payments next January instead of a year later. Ohio met the federal two-year tax collection requirement, he said, by assessing 1936 payrolls under a retroactive clause of the state law.

The governor estimated the "current business depression" made approximately 100,000 Ohioans idle. His proposal to advance the insurance benefit date, he said, was intended to aid these.

While Davey said the plan could become operative within 60 days, the social security board estimated six months would be required.

Mosier said the board before which Davey appeared, believed the governor's plan could not be approved by Attorney General Cummings to whom it was referred.

Davey, without awaiting either federal or state legislative action, said he would call on state agencies to conduct a state-wide registration, investigation and certification of potential insurance beneficiaries.

WASHINGTON—Rep. William A. Ashbrook, D, Johnstown, O., congressman from the 17th district which includes Richland county, said after the meeting that he was "in full accord with what the governor said."

Ashbrook had interrupted the governor to inquire what the latter believed "has been done and what should be undone," but Davey declined to discuss specific examples.

COUNCIL GROUP DUMPS REQUEST IN BOARD'S LAP

Says Labor Ordinance Placing City Employes Under Civil Service Only Substitute.

The question of the extension of civil service among all city appointive employes was tossed into the lap of the civil service commission last night by a special council committee when it made its final report to council.

"The effectiveness of the administration of civil service is enmission," the committee reported tirely up to the civil service comin a two-page statement.

"The proposed ordinance presented by the Trades Council merely substitutes an ordinance in place of the existing state civil service law, and as a substitute is not as complete and effective as the state statute," the report said.

Established by State.

"We have a civil service commisison established by state authority and it has the power to insist on all offices and employments, except those which are elective and which by statute are appointed by the mayor," it further stated.

Fred Miller, chairman of the special committee that had the proposal under advisement for the past five months, said that the ordinance proposed and presented by the labor organizations, did not add to the state law under which the city was conducting civil service at the present time.

Other members of the five-man committee were Karl P. Troll, George C. Kyle, James E Crum, and Lester Hunter.

Miller said the committee had met with City Solicitor Herbert H. Schettler on Dec. 5, and had "thoroughly discussed" both the petition and the proposed ordinance presented to council by the Trades Council and the Richland county Industrial council, the new CIO central body.

The petition bearing more than 2,000 signatures was presented to council on July 6, and asked that civil service be extended among all city employes. The proposed ordinance was presented six weeks ago after representatives of the labor groups dissatisfied with progress being made by the committee, were told by Council President Claude M Hunter that they should draft their own ordinance and it would be considered.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

No Popular Demand.

THE FURTHER this extra session of congress progresses the greater grows the confusion and the stronger the tendency among members of congress to question the wisdom of the president in calling it at all. As it becomes clearer that the session, which will end now in two weeks, is not going to do the things for which it was convened, the leaders are anxious not to have the responsibility for complete futility placed upon them.

IT HAS BEEN suggested by some of the more erudite of the political analysts that it is the Roosevelt strategy to permit congress to wallow around helplessly until the close, thus demonstrating to the country and to statesmen on the hill that it can get nowhere by itself This, it is argued, will compel congress to accept White House leadership in the regular session and make it possible for the president again to get what he wants the way he wants it. There are two reasons things will not work out that way. One is because the alleged strategy is altogether too subtle to be true. Things that seem as smart as that in politics are never really planned; they are just imagined. The other reason is because it is not going to be possible for Mr. Roosevelt to arouse any very great popular indignation against congress, should one or both of his main proposals fail of passage in the extra session. The simple truth is that there is behind neither the crop control bill nor the wage and hour control bill anything resembling a strong popular demand.

UNDOUBTEDLY, this is the most significant fact about the whole situation. Here is congress convened into extra session by the president on the ground that these proposals could not wait; that their immediate enactment into law was demanded by the country and vital to the particular classes concerned—to wit, labor and agriculture. Yet, after the session has run a full month and the bills have been discussed at great length, the testimony of members of congress is that there is a curious absence of public sentiment in their respective states and districts for either one. The best proof of this is the absence of letters from their constituents. That is the way members of congress judge public sentiment, and it is an infallible way. They know the country is not deeply stirred in favor of either of these Roosevelt proposals because they do not "hear from home" about them. There has, they say, been an almost complete absence of letters on the farm bill. On the wage and hour control bill, just before the petition to discharge the rules committee was filed, there was a shower of letters, but this clearly was organized. With that spasmodic exception, there has been no exhibition of interest in that particular piece of legislation.

WHAT IT BOILS down to is this: There does not exist now, and did not exist before the president's call, any general demand for these measures. Not only that, but there is no unified demand among the classes affected. A large and influential element among the farmers is strongly opposed to the compulsory crop control bill, which by long odds is the most drastic and dangerous proposal yet advanced in this country, conferring as it does, a power upon the secretary of agriculture which will put every farm and every farmer completely under governmental control and erect a federal bureaucracy the like of which has never been seen.

ON THE LABOR side, the wage and hour control bill as advocated by the administration is opposed by the A. F. of L., whose substitute bill, in turn, has aroused the hostility of practically the entire south. One bill gives to a federal board or commissioner power to regulate wages and work conditions which would not only further handicap business but in which union labor itself sees a threat. The other bill—that of the A. F. of L.—provides for a flat minimum wage for the whole country, which most certainly would industrially devastate a very large section of it. When these facts are considered, the failure of the people generally to be interested in Mr. Roosevelt's present program is certainly not surprising. For one thing, he has not been able to unite either the labor leaders or the farm leaders. For another, so complicated are the proposals that hardly anyone understands them. Particularly is this true of the crop control bill, the ultimate form of which no one can foresee. The fact is that Mr. Roosevelt called congress into session to pass measures for which there was neither need nor demand. The pressure for passage comes not from the people but from the administration. Because of it, in the regular session to follow, one or both these bills probably will become law. But they will be unwanted laws, forced through by the White House weight, with the political motive behind them barely concealed and the chances of rejection by the supreme court admittedly strong.

IF THE TRUE character of these bills were fully and generally understood there would at least be more interest in them. They would, for example, arouse the militant opposition of those who seek to preserve individual freedom in America. The trouble about measures such as these is that their real nature is not appreciated until they are actually in operation—and then, very often, it is too late. It was that way with the NRA, from which we were freed by the supreme court. It may take another such experience to really impress the country with what is going on.

Henry East, owner and manager of the brightest little wire-hair in pictures—"The Thin Man," "The Awful Truth," etc.—now turns down "unimportant" roles for his protege. East thinks too many screen appearances will jeopardize Skippy's screen value, which is considerable, as East recently refused to sell the dog for $25,000. . . .

Speculation: Would any movie fan notice it if the star didn't rush over, between takes, to have the hairdresser smooth every last strand of hair into place? It seemed especially silly, seeing Deanna Durbin having her nice bob patted and brushed when it looked no different before or after. What 14-year-old schoolgirl, excited as Deanna was supposed to be in the scene, ever looked so perfectly coiffured?

Fred Allen (in "Sally, Irene, and Mary") memorizes his lines faithfully but the other day he fumbled a couple he was supposed to be reading Jimmy Durante from a letter . . . . Not strange, however, because they never, never write anything on movie letters.

Today's quotation, from Halliwell Hobbes: "Life begins at 50, not 40. All the major emotions, love, hate, jealousy, great ambition, pride of power, determination to succeed at any price, are or should be the sole prerogatives of youth. . . . When hot blood cools and age advances, then is the time to readjust one's viewpoints and so arrange life that its autumn shall be one of beauty and rounded-out ecomplishment. . . ." (Hobbes, by this reckoning, recently turned 10 years of age. . . .)

Danielle Darrieux, like Annabella, will do her own make-up for pictures. . . . Must be an old French custom, inasmuch as Simone's first major battle in Hollywood was fought with the make-up man. . . . Annabella is concentrating on American ways and speech now. . . . Orders in her home are for no French dialogue, and none but typically American food. . . .

Louise Hovick has the largest portable dressing room in town. . . . It's her honeymoon trailer—with two rooms, bath, kitchen, and kennel for her six dachshunds. . . . The latter don't come to work, however. . . .
